Sense of Agency: Examining Awareness of the Acting Self Nicole David, James W Moore, Sukhvinder Obhi, 2015-07-24 The sense of agency is defined as the sense of oneself as the agent of one's own actions This also allows oneself to feel distinct from others and contributes to the subjective phenomenon of self consciousness Gallagher 2000 Distinguishing oneself from others is arguably one of the most important functions of the human brain Even minor impairments in this ability profoundly affect the individual's functioning in society as demonstrated by psychiatric and neurological syndromes involving agency disturbances Della Sala et al 1991 Franck et al 2001 Frith 2005 Sirigu et al 1999 But the sense of agency also plays a role for cultural and religious phenomena such as voodoo superstition and gambling in which individuals experience subjective control over objectively uncontrollable entities Wegner 2003 Furthermore it plays into ethical and law questions concerning responsibility and guilt For these reasons a better understanding of the sense of agency has been important for neuroscientists clinicians philosophers of mind and the general society alike Significant progress has been made in this regard For example philosophical scrutiny has helped establish the conceptual boundaries of the sense of agency Bayne 2011 Gallagher 2000 2012 Pacherie 2008 Synofzik et al 2008 and scientific investigations have shed light on the neurocognitive basis of sense of agency including the brain regions supporting sense of agency Chambon et al 2013 David et al 2007 Farrer et al 2003 2008 Spengler et al 2009 Tsakiris et al 2010 Yomogida et al 2010 Despite this progress there remain a number of outstanding questions such as Are there cross cultural differences in the sense of agency How does the sense of agency develop in infants or change across the lifespan How does social context influence sense of agency What neural networks support sense of agency i e connectivity and communication between brain regions What are the temporal dynamics with respect to neural processes underlying the sense of agency i e the what and when of agency processing How can different cue models of the sense of agency be further specified and empirically supported especially with regards to cue integration weighting What are the applications of sense of agency research clinically engineering etc The concept of the sense of agency offers intriguing avenues for knowledge transfer across disciplines and interdisciplinary empirical approaches especially in addressing the aforementioned outstanding questions The aim of the present research topic is to promote and facilitate such interdisciplinarity for a better understanding of why and how we typically experience our own actions so naturally and undoubtedly as ours and what goes awry when we do not We thus welcome contributions from for example i neuroscience and psychology including development psychology neuroscience ii psychiatry and neurology iii philosophy iv robotics and v computational modeling In addition to empirical or scientific studies of the sense of agency we also encourage theoretical contributions including reviews models and opinions

Buen Viaje! Conrad J. Schmitt, Protase E. Woodford, 2008 Step up to success with Buen viaje Buen viaje is a comprehensive three level program that encourages meaningful practical communication by immersing your students in the language and culture of the Spanish speaking world The text and its integrated technology resources help you meet the needs of every student in your diverse classroom Buen viaje Level 1 has 14 manageable chapters Chapters 13 and 14 are repeated as Chapters 1 and 2 in Level 2 for flexible pacing Topics provide students with the skills they need to communicate when shopping talking about home family and friends participating in activities and traveling Styles of Practice in Higher Education Carol Evans, Maria Kozhevnikov, 2016-04-08 This book highlights important discussions occurring within the styles field that have direct relevance for the development of effective twenty first century learning environments Styles research in this context is used as an umbrella term to encompass cognitive styles learning styles and approaches to learning as well as student and teacher beliefs and conceptions of learning and teaching Styles have the capacity to influence instruction in the ways that an educator chooses to design and deliver the curriculum However the potential of styles to inform teaching and learning and vice versa remains under explored Furthermore the frequent misuse and misinterpretation of styles has led to over simplistic assumptions and practices including the labelling of learners as one style or another and the focus on matching mode of instruction to style of learner A fundamental challenge therefore remains the dissemination of clear guidance on the effective ways of using styles research in practice this is the core aim of the Education Learning Styles Individual differences Network whose members have contributed chapters to this book The volume provides a major contribution to the knowledge base on enhancing the application of styles research to practice within both educational and workplace settings and is of considerable value to those involved in the design and delivery of effective learning environments within higher education Relationships between styles variables and other individual learning differences are considered across a range of subject domains medicine science teacher education and cultural contexts The key themes discussed include the potential of constructivist environments to effect change in learning behaviours the notion of deep approaches to learning relationships between approaches to learning and self regulated learning the varied learning and teaching responses of students teachers to specific constructivist interventions including the identification of specific patterns of responses that are characteristic of highlighted groups relationships between conceptions and approaches to learning and teaching This book was originally published as a special issue of Research Papers in Education Recruiter Journal, 2004 Physically Based Real-Time Auralization of Interactive Virtual Environments Dirk Schröder, 2011 Analogous to visualization the auralization of virtual environments describes the simulation of sound propagation inside enclosures where methods of Geometrical Acoustics are mostly applied for a high quality synthesis of aural stimuli that go along with a certain realistic behavior In the course of this thesis the design and implementation of the real time room acoustics simulation software RAVEN will be described which is a vital part of the implemented 3D sound rendering system of RWTH Aachen University s immersive Virtual Reality system RAVEN relies on present day knowledge of room acoustical simulation techniques and enables a physically accurate auralization of sound propagation in complex environments including important wave effects such as sound scattering airborne sound insulation between rooms and sound diffraction Despite this realistic sound field rendering not only spatially distributed and freely movable sound sources and receivers are supported at runtime but also modifications and manipulations of the environment itself All major features are evaluated by investigating both the overall accuracy of the room acoustics simulation and the performance of implemented algorithms and possibilities for further simulation optimizations are identified by assessing empirical studies of subjects operating in immersive environments
