Nabokov's Favorite Word Is Mauve Ben Blatt, 2017-03-14 Blatt brings big data to the literary canon exploring the wealth of fun findings that remain hidden in the works of the world's greatest writers He assembles a database of thousands of books and hundreds of millions of words and starts asking the questions that have intrigued curious word nerds and book lovers for generations What are our favorite authors favorite words Do men and women write differently Are bestsellers getting dumber over time Which bestselling writer uses the most clichés What makes a great opening sentence How can we judge a book by its cover And which writerly advice is worth following or ignoring Amazon.com

Reading with Feeling Susan L. Feagin, 2018-10-18 Feelings and other affective responses to a work of fiction are an important part appreciation and the capacity to inspire such responses is part of what is valuable about literary works of art Susan L Feagin's philosophical exploration of appreciation focusing specifically on its emotional or affective components asks us to consider aesthetic appreciation as getting the value out of the work Appreciation involves exercising abilities Feagin develops a psychological model for understanding how one becomes emotionally engaged with something one knows is fictional She stresses the importance of the role of imagination in producing affective responses Imagination is harnessed by the writer's choice of phrase or depiction of detail Feagin cites the work of Angela Carter Molly Keane Heinrich B ll Gabriel Garcia Marquez and draws an extended example from Henry James She notes that not all responses to a work are relevant or appropriate and discusses a variety of ways responses may be assessed Even though assessing responses can stifle imagination and hence threaten spontaneity and the responses themselves the value of having affective responses to fiction depends upon our being able to make such assessments Whatever else we may gain appreciating a work getting the value out of it is one means of extending the capacities of our own imaginations
