Antimicrobial Peptides: Utility Players in Innate Immunity Mark W. Robinson, Andrew T. Hutchinson, Sheila Donnelly, Antimicrobial peptides AMPs represent an ancient group of molecules with diverse functions in innate immunity To date more than 1000 naturally occurring AMPs have been identified which display considerable diversity in their primary sequences lengths structures and biological activities Despite this variability AMPs are broadly classified according to homologous secondary structures as cathelicidins linear a helical peptides defensins strand peptides connected by disulfide bonds and bactenecins loop peptides Most but not all AMPs are cationic with amphipathic faces These biochemical properties bestow many peptides with potent antimicrobial activity by facilitating interactions with negatively charged microbial cell membrane components thereby increasing membrane permeability and resulting in microbial death Other indirect effects on microbial physiology have been reported including inhibition of DNA RNA synthesis impaired protein synthesis and folding disruption of cell wall formation and inhibition of microbial cell metabolism Thus with the spread of antibiotic resistant microbial pathogens AMPs have emerged as exciting candidates for next generation anti infective therapies However recent studies suggest that AMPs have evolved other mechanisms of pathogen clearance Immunomodulation is a novel approach to antimicrobial therapy that centres on boosting host immunity rather than direct microbial killing This is also an attractive means to treat sepsis and other immune mediated diseases Whilst several cationic peptides are under investigation as antimicrobial agents a select few show a remarkable ability to protect against lethal endotoxaemia and clinically relevant bacterial infections including methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus MRSA The molecular mechanisms responsible for this protection are only beginning to emerge but include prevention of innate cell activation by targeting key stages of bacterial endotoxin mediated cell signalling In this research topic hosted by Frontiers in Molecular Innate Immunity we aim to highlight key areas of AMP research including peptide diversity structure function relationships antimicrobial activity and mechanisms of immune modulation We also aim to stimulate discussion on the emerging therapeutic potential of AMPs including antifungal antiviral and anticancer applications Cumulated Index Medicus ,1987 Geotitles ,1993

September 1958 another 1000 copies of a softbound single volume manual Part No 637 was issued and the images in this manual are almost photo quality This edition also included the previously missing Special Tools section However for some unknown reason the 12 page appendix to the transmission section from the December 1957 edition was omitted This same part number 637 was reprinted by the factory in September 1961 1000 copies Finally in November 1962 Alfa issued 2000 copies of a 15 page booklet Enclosure to the Shop Manual Technical Characteristics Part No 854 This booklet expanded the technical data for the 1300cc models that was previously included in Technical Specifications section of both the ring bound and softbound workshop manuals However in 1962 the Giulietta sport models Sprint Sprint Special and Spider were fitted with the new 1600cc engine and the Giulietta Series 101 name was dropped but they continued to be sold under the Giulia name as 101 Series vehicles until they were replaced by the all new 105 Series Giulia based models in 1965 Consequently for the sake of completeness the 20 page October 1963 Technical Characteristics booklet Part No 955 1000 copies for the 1600cc Giulia Ti Spider Sprint and the 7 page October 1964 Technical Characteristics for the Giulia Spider Veloce should be a required addition to this list of manuals for the 750 and 101 Series models Alfa-Romeo Giulia 1600, 1962-70
