music making itself and explores how music as sound material and practice can be more consistently and engagingly integrated into the curation and interpretation of historic houses. The volume is structured around a selection of thematic chapters and a series of shorter case studies each focusing on a specific house object or project. Key themes include Different types of historic house including the case of the composer or musician house what can be learned from museums and galleries about the use of sound and music and what may not transfer to the historic house setting Musical instruments as part of a wider collection questions of restoration and public use and the demands of particular collection types such as sheet music Musical objects and pieces of music as storytelling components and the use of music to affectively colour narratives or experiences This is a pioneering study that will appeal to all those interested in the intersection between Music and Museum and Heritage Studies It will also be of interest to scholars and researchers of Music History Popular Music Performance Studies and Material Culture

Topothesia Ameeth Vijay, 2023-05-02 SHORTLISTED 2024 MSA FIRST BOOK PRIZE Topothesia reads urban planning as a mode of speculative fiction one inextricably linked to histories of British colonialism and liberalism through a particular understanding of place. The book focuses on town planning from the late nineteenth century to the present day showing how the contemporary geography of Britain sharply unequal and marked by racial division continues ideologies of place established in colonial contexts. Specifically planning allows for the speculative construction of future places that are both utopian in their ability to resolve political disagreement and at the same tantalizingly realizable able to be produced in concrete reality. This speculative imaginary I argue is only possible within the ideological framework of colonialism and the history of empire within which it developed. Topothesia refers to a rhetorical device employing the vivid depiction of an often imaginary place. This device Vijay shows helps us understand urban planning as a narrative genre one that even in its most mundane documents is compelled to produce elaborate fantasies of future places. The book examines specific planning movements over time to understand the form and the stakes of their speculative worlds. In building these worlds the book shows planners continually coopted literary critiques of the present and reveries of the future retaining literature's aesthetics while eschewing its politics. At the same time Vijay shows writers and artists have dwelled within and against these colonial imaginaries to seek other means of representing place.
