The US Public and American Foreign Policy Andrew Johnstone, Helen Laville, 2010-06-10

Though often overlooked public opinion has always played a significant role in the development and promotion of US foreign policy and this work seeks to comprehensively assess the impact and nature of that opinion through a collection of historical and contemporary essays The volume evaluates the role of organizations and movements that look to represent public opinion and assesses the nature of their relationship with the government The contributors utilize a number of different approaches to examine this impact including polling data assessments of the role of the media and the wider consideration of ideas and ideology moving on to examine the specific role played by the public in the policy making and policy promotion process Engaging with new questions as well as approaching old questions from a new angle the work argues that whilst the roles change and the extent of influence varies the power of the public to both initiate and constrain foreign policy clearly exists and should not be underestimated This work will be of great interest to all those with an interest in American foreign policy American politics and American history Symposium on Social Action (JCR Vol. 08 No. 01) Kerby Anderson, David Chilton, Edward Coleson, Ricky Cotton, Vern Crisler, Michael Gilstrap, Archie Jones, George M. Strong,2019-11-25 Citizenship is much more than the right to vote It is a collection of political capacities constantly up for debate From Socrates to contemporary American politics the question of what it means to be an authentic citizen is an inherently political one With Learning One's Native Tongue Tracy B Strong explores the development of the concept of American citizenship and what it means to belong to this country starting with the Puritans in the seventeenth century and continuing to the present day He examines the conflicts over the meaning of citizenship in the writings and speeches of prominent thinkers and leaders ranging from John Winthrop and Roger Williams to Thomas Jefferson Nathaniel Hawthorne Abraham Lincoln Frederick Douglass and Franklin Roosevelt among many others who have participated in these important cultural and political debates The criteria that define what being a citizen entails change over time and in response to historical developments and they are thus also often the source of controversy and conflict as with voting rights for women and African Americans Strong looks closely at these conflicts and the ensuing changes in the conception of citizenship paying attention to what difference each change makes and what each particular conception entails socially and politically

The Crisis of Evangelical Christianity Keith C. Sewell,2016-04-26 In the broad context of Christianity as it developed over two millennia and with special reference to the last three centuries this discussion finds that Evangelicalism has repeatedly offered a reduced and distorted understanding of the faith The evangelical outlook is much less scriptural than evangelicals generally assume When it comes to appreciating the order of creation our calling to develop integral Christian thinking and living the religious significance of culture and the coming of the kingdom reductionist Evangelicalism struggles with its only rarely acknowledged deficiencies As a result we have all too often ended up with a Christianity shorn of its cosmic scope and wide cultural implications and restricted to institutional church life and the cultivation of private spiritual experience The consequences are frequently enervating and corrosive Without disregarding what is important in the past evangelicals are here challenged to take the Bible much more seriously and thereby transcend the limitations of their habitual reductionism Evangelicals are encouraged to embrace an integral and full orb ed understanding of Christian discipleship that will equip the faithful to address the deep and complex challenges of the twenty first century Education and Politics in the 1990s

Denis Lawton,1992 Examines the ideological differences between the education policies of the two main political parties in the UK and discusses the emergence of these differences within the context of the 1988 Education Reform Act It also looks at the world wide influence of the New Right politics on education
