Familiar Quotations John Bartlett, 1891 Familiar Quotations: a Collection of Passages, Phrases, and Proverbs Traced to Their Sources in Ancient and Modern Literature, 1895 THE VISION OF SIR LAUNFAL James Russell Lowell, 2024-02-24 In Cambridge, there are two literary shrines to which visitors are sure to find their way soon after passing the Harvard gates. Craigie House, the home of Longfellow, and Elmwood, the home of Lowell. Though their hallowed retirement has been profaned by the encroachments of the growing city, yet in their simple dignity these fine old colonial mansions still bespeak the noble associations of the past and stand as memorials of the finest products of American culture. Elmwood was built before the Revolution by Thomas Oliver, the Tory governor, who signed his abdication at the invitation of a committee of about four thousand people who surrounded his house at Cambridge. The property was confiscated by the Commonwealth and used by the American army during the war. In 1818 it was purchased by the Rev. Charles Lowell, pastor of the West Congregational Church in Boston, and after ninety years it is still the family home. Here was born February 22, 1819, James Russell Lowell, with surroundings most propitious for the nurturing of a poet's soul. Within the stately home there was a refined family life; the father had profited by the unusual privilege of three years' study abroad, and his library of some four thousand volumes was not limited to theology; the mother, whose maiden name was Spence, and who traced her Scotch ancestry back to the hero of the ballad of Sir Patrick Spens, taught her children the good old ballads and the romantic stories in the Fairie Queen, and it was one of the poet's earliest delights to recount the adventures of Spenser's heroes and heroines to his playmates. The Living Age, 1885 From Milton to Tennyson Louis Du Pont Syle, 1896 American Classics for School Longfellow Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 2024-04-10 Reprint of the original first published in 1882 Trade Circular and Publishers' Bulletin, 1889 St. Nicholas Mary Mapes Dodge, 1895 The Principles of Rhetoric and Their Application ... Adams Sherman Hill, 1883
