Polling Students for School Improvement and Reform Paris S. Strom, Robert D. Strom, 2015-11-01 People generally acknowledge the superiority of adolescents in using technology tools needed for learning in the future The purpose of this book is to describe an online polling strategy that allows adolescents to make known how they view conditions of learning at their school A school improvement model illustrates how to combine results of student polling with stakeholders perceptions in the scheme of school reform Student polling differs from other strategies because the target for gathering data is a single school This deliberately narrow base for sampling student opinion ensures poll results have local relevance that can motivate stakeholder involvement and guide their response Over 14 000 secondary students have completed polls examined in the text These ten polls include career exploration time management selective attention and distraction motivation for Internet learning tutoring peer support cheating frustration cyberbullying and school stress Students are the stakeholders with the most to gain or lose in efforts to keep American education competitive Accordingly their views should be sought as part of decision making about reform When student opinion and adult observation are considered an intergenerational perspective can emerge that more accurately portrays institutional strengths and limitations School principals superintendents and state department of education leaders are invited to consider a collaborative project with the authors Software offers administrators rapid feedback on whole school results Finding out how special education gifted and talented and second language acquisition students view their conditions of learning gives additional insight about school improvement

2019 Greg Michels, 2018-01-01 Annual finance and employment comparisons of local taxing authorities Homeschooling in the 21st Century Robert Maranto, Debra A. Bell, 2018-10-18 Education began on the most intimate levels the family and the community With industrialization education became professionalized and bureaucratized typically conducted in schools rather than homes Over the past half century however schooling has increasingly returned home both in the United States and across the globe This reflects several trends including greater affluence and smaller family size leading parents to focus more on child well being declining faith in professionals including educators and the Internet whose resources facilitate home education In the United States students who are homeschooled for at least part of their childhood outnumber those in charter schools Yet remarkably little research addresses homeschooling This book brings together work from 20 researchers addressing a range of homeschooling topics including the evolving legal and institutional frameworks behind home education why some parents make this choice home education educational environments special education and outcomes regarding both academic achievement and political tolerance In short this book offers the most up to date research to guide policy makers and home educators a matter of great importance given the agenda of the current presidential administration The chapters in this book were originally published as articles in the Journal of School Choice
