Defence Industrial Cooperation in the European Union Daniel Fiott, 2019-03-28 This book provides an empirical understanding of how EU level defence industrial cooperation functions in practice Using the Liberal Intergovernmental theoretical model the book argues that while national economic preferences are an essential factor of government interests they only explain part of the dynamic that leads to the development of defence industrial policy at EU level Moving beyond a simple adumbration of economic preferences it shows how the EU s institutional framework and corpus of law are used by governments to reaffirm their position as the ultimate arbiter and promoter of national economic preferences in the defence industrial sector To this end the work asks why and how EU member state governments European defence firms and EU institutions developed EU level defence industrial policy between 2003 and 2009 The book also analyses significant policy developments including the establishment of a European Defence Agency and two EU Directives on equipment transfers and defence procurement This book will be of much interest to students of EU policy defence studies security studies and International Relations in general

Unified Military Industries of the Soviet Bloc Pál Germuska, 2015-02-17 This book draws a subtle picture of Warsaw Pact economic and military cooperation by presenting a complete branch the military industry from the perspective of a smaller member state Hungary It demonstrates that the military industry s cooperation played a crucial role in the development of economic integration within the Soviet Bloc and it was in this sector that the strongest most efficient integration was established The book builds on recently declassified documentation from Soviet led international economic organizations to give insight into the backstage debates of partner states to shed light on the intensive conflicts and clashes of interests between the nations and to highlight the bureaucratic decision making of the Eastern bloc s supranational organ The transnational analysis is supplemented by the presentation of the national viewpoint how Hungary intended to vindicate its interests what measures Budapest took to optimize international cooperation and what kind of new markets were discovered outside the Warsaw Pact

Defence Industries in the 21st Century Çağlar Kurç, Richard A. Bitzinger, Stephanie G. Neuman, 2021-05-13 Defence Industries in the 21st Century explores the transformation in the global defence industrial production through examining the interaction between international and domestic factors With the global defence industry and arms market likely continue to expand and mature the ways in which this progression could influence international politics remain obscure In practice as the contents of this book show the defence industrial bases and arms export policies of emerging states display significant variance This variance is the result of a unique balance between domestic and international factors that has shaped the defence industrialisation behaviour and policies of the less industrialised states One of the most important conclusions of the book is that the interplay between domestic and international factors clearly influences the variation in the emerging states defence industrialisation policies as well as their success or failure While international factors create opportunities they also limit the options available to emerging economies Domestic factors also play an important role by shaping the policy choices of the states decision makers Exploring the balance between international and domestic factors and the ways in which they influence defence industrialisation in emerging states Defence Industries in the 21st Century will be of great interest to scholars of Defence Industries Arms Manufacturing and Defence Strategic and Security Studies more generally The chapters were originally published in Defence Studies Comparative Strategy and All Azimuth

Consumer Capitalism Gunnar Trumbull, 2018-07-05 The unfettered marketplace in which uncertainty rules and the admonition caveat emptor let the buyer beware dictates each consumer decision has today virtually disappeared Consumers have become the focus of intensive economic policymaking designed to protect them from the risks and disappointments of the market Today arguably no other economic actor in the advanced industrial countries not the investor not the worker not the welfare recipient enjoys a more thorough set of legal and institutional protections than the modern consumer when he or she enters the corner store from the Introduction Gunnar Trumbull investigates the origins of national systems of consumer protection in France and Germany where in the early 1970s consumer groups and producers organized to advance their own ideas about the identity and interests of the affluent consumer Through a comparison of eight areas of policy product liability law product safety standards and recall misleading advertising comparative product tests product labeling quality standards consumer contracts and pricing Trumbull shows that different conceptions of the consumer interest emerged in the two countries The result was the development of distinctive national consumption regimes which have in turn influenced the market strategies of domestic producers Trumbull's findings help to clarify distinctive national approaches to recent product crises including cases of BSE and genetically modified foods His research suggests that in the age of consumer capitalism national competitiveness may hinge not only on endowments of labor and capital but also on the institutional forms of national consumption
