

A painting of a forest scene. In the foreground, a stream flows from the left towards the right, its surface reflecting the surrounding trees and foliage. The water is dark with highlights of green and yellow. On the left bank, a large, gnarled tree trunk is visible, with its branches extending over the water. The background is filled with dense trees and foliage in various shades of green, yellow, and brown, suggesting an autumn or late summer setting. The overall mood is serene and natural.
