Where Can I Do Community Service:

Community Service and Higher Learning Robert A. Rhoads, 1997-07-24 In Community Service and Higher Learning Robert A Rhoads examines the experiences of students as they commit themselves to community service during their college years The author explores how a student s sense of self may be challenged through involvement in the lives of others within the context of community service relationships Central to his explorations of the self is the role caring plays as a source of self understanding and identity development Drawing upon classic symbolic interactionists such as George Herbert Mead as well as contemporary feminists such as Carol Gilligan and Nel Noddings Rhoads suggests ways in which the self might be reconsidered with an ethic of care philosophy at its core He argues that higher education ought to play a key role in fostering more relational and caring individuals and that community service offers a pedagogical opportunity for encouraging the development of more caring selves He maintains that as society becomes increasingly complex diverse and potentially fragmented caring becomes a more important facet of one s sense of self than perhaps ever before It is only through an increasing concern for the other the essence of caring that one is able to bridge the relational barriers posed by the postmodern condition
