The Friday By John Barth:

The Friday Book John Barth, 1984 Whether discussing modernism postmodernism semiotics Homer Cervantes Borges blue crabs or osprey nests Barth demonstrates an enthusiasm for the life of the mind a joy in thinking and in expressing those thoughts that becomes contagious A John Barth (Routledge Revivals) Heide Ziegler, 2014-10-10 John Barth represents most completely what has been termed postmodernism not because his work comprises more postmodernist features than other contemporary writers but because for Barth life and art are two sides of the same coin In this brief study first published in 1987 Heide Ziegler examines all Barth's novels She argues that each pair of novels first exhausts and then replenishes those literary genres that hinge on a particular world view the existentialist novel the Bildungsroman the Künstlerroman or the realistic novel Through the division of labour between character and author Barth manages to develop a new mode of literary parody which projects itself beyond the mocked literary model and even self parody into the realm of future fiction This book is ideal for students of literature and postmodern studies Final Fridays John Barth, 2012-04-10 For decades acclaimed author John Barth has strayed from his Monday through Thursday morning routine of fiction writing and dedicated Friday mornings to the muse of nonfiction The result is Final Fridays his third essay collection following The Friday Book 1984 and Further Fridays 1995 Sixteen years and six novels since his last volume of non fiction Barth delivers yet another remarkable work comprised of 27 insightful essays With pieces covering everything from reading writing and the state of the art to tributes to writer friends and family members this collection is witty and engaging throughout Barth's unaffected love of learning San Francisco Examiner Chronicle and joy in thinking that becomes contagious Washington Post shine through in this third and with an implied question mark final essay collection John Barth and Postmodernism Berndt Clavier, 2007 John Barth's eminence as a postmodernist is indisputable However much of the criticism dealing with his work is prompted by his own theories of exhaustion and subsequent replenishment leaving his writing relatively untouched by theories of postmodernism in general This book changes that by focusing on the relationship between Barth's aesthetic and the ideology critique of the historical avant gardes which were the first to mobilize art against itself and its institutional practices and demands Examining Barth's metafictional parodies in the light of theories of space and subjectivity Clavier engages the question of ideology critique in postmodernism by offering the montage as a possible model for understanding Barth's fiction In such a light postmodernism may well be perceived as a mimesis of reality particularly a recognition of the collective nature of self and the world John Barth and the Anxiety of Continuance Patricia Tobin, 2016-11-11 During the sixties and seventies the fictional reinventions of John Barth along with his misread and influential essay The Literature of Exhaustion established the comic novelist as a leading practitioner and theorist of what was then coming to be called postmodern literature In more recent years however Barth's reputation has been called into question within the ongoing critical debate over the criterion of originality and the status of literary repetition imitation and parody In her spirited defense of Barth Patricia Tobin employs Harold Bloom's theory of belatedness to confront and explode this issue For Bloom the later the artist the greater the burden of the past against which he must rebel and the more hopeless his task However Tobin argues Barth revels in his belatedness and celebrates the opportunity to survey a rich literary past and to bring back to life its dead forms genres and styles by completing fulfilling and exhausting them Not a retrospective and negative anxiety of influence then but a wholly prospective and positive anxiety of continuance has propelled Barth through a distinguished career Throughout Tobin elaborates the conjunctions and disjunctions between Bloom and Barth with surprising results Most notable perhaps is her examination of how Bloom's model of a map of misreading helps to elucidate and even predict the ways in which Barth sets each new novel in antithetical relation to the one before Along the way much is said about modernism and postmodernism repetition and difference and what it means poetically and willfully to intend a career John Barth and the Anxiety of Continuance will be of interest to scholars of American fiction and critical theory Borges and His Successors Edna Aizenberg, 1990 In the first book devoted to the impact made by Borges on the contemporary aesthetic imagination Aizenberg brings together specially commissioned essays from international scholars in a variety of disciplines to provide a wide ranging assessment of Borges's influence on the fiction literary theory and arts of our time Publishers website

History and the Contemporary Novel David Cowart, 1989 Cowart presents a study of international historical fiction since World War II with reflections on the affinities between historical and fictional narrative analysis of the basic modes of historical fiction and readings of a number of historical novels including John Barth's The Sot Weed Factor Marguerite Yourcenar's Memoirs of Hadrian Russell Hoban's Riddley Walker Margaret Atwood's The Handmaid's Tale Giuseppe Tomasi Di Lampedusa's The Leopard D M Thomas's The White Hotel William Faulkner's Go Down Moses and Umberto Eco's The Name of the Rose He proposes recognizing four modes of the historical novel the past as a distant mirror of the present fictions whose authors seek to pinpoint the precise historical moment when the modern age or some prominent feature of it came into existence fictions whose authors aspire purely or largely to historical verisimilitude and fictions whose authors reverse history to contemplate utopia and dystopia in the future Thus historical fiction can be organized under the rubrics The Distant Mirror The Turning Point The Way It Was and The Way It Will Be This fourfold schema and his focus on postwar novels set Cowart's work apart from previous studies which have not devoted adequate space to the contemporary historical novel Cowart argues that postwar historical fiction merits more extensive treatment because it is the product of an age unique in the annals of history an age in which history itself may end Facing Texts Heide Ziegler, 2013-07-22 This selection of fiction by many of America's best writers each coupled with a distinguished critic's response is designed to defy the chronological secondariness of critical interpretation During the creation of this book the majority of the contributions chosen by the writers themselves were as yet unpublished providing an unmediated encounter between author and critic Every reader extends what editors authors and critics have begun by adding to the imaginary space in which all texts may be woven together This process serves as metaphor for the changing nature of any latter day encounter with one's own literary tradition The interfacing of texts not only illuminates the fiction and the relationship of fiction to critics but also informs our conceptions of text criticism and fiction itself

Late Postmodernism J. Green, 2005-05-12 Does the novel have a future Questions of this kind which are as old as the novel itself acquired a fresh urgency at the end of the twentieth century with the rise of new media and the relegation of literature to the margins of American culture As a result anxieties about readership cultural authority and literary value have come to preoccupy a second generation of postmodern novelists Through close analysis of several major novels of the past decade including works by Don DeLillo Philip Roth Kathryn Davis Jonathan Franzen and Richard Powers Late Postmodernism examines the forces shaping contemporary literature and the remarkable strategies American writers have adopted to make sense of their place in culture

The Form of American Romance Edgar Dryden, 2019-12-01 Originally published in 1988 Edgar Dryden challenges recent criticism that has tended to discredit or at least devalue the importance of romance as a thematic and generic category of American fiction In The Form of American Romance he examines its evolution and meaning through readings of five exemplary texts Hawthorne's Marble Faun Melville's Pierre James's Portrait of a Lady Faulkner's Absalom Absalom and Barth's Letters Each of these novels treats the problems of reading and writing in a self referential way that reflects on the questions they dramatize and Dryden has chosen each with the others in mind Taken together they chart a line of development with representative examples of what literary history calls romanticism realism modernism and postmodernism and thus they suggest a certain story about the continuity of the American novel     The Art of Excess Tom LeClair, 1989
