Lolita in Peyton Place Ruth Pirsig Wood, 2014-01-14 This book analyzes the differences in content reader expectation and social moral ethical functions of the three types of novels in America of the 1950s It challenges the notion that highbrow novels Lolita do important cultural work while popular novels contribute to personal and social decay and examines how time periods influence the moral content of novels The book separates popular fiction into lowbrow Peyton Place and middlebrow Man in the Grey Flannel Suit and explains that lowbrow like highbrow evolves from the folklore tradition and contains messages about how to be a good man or good woman and how to find a satisfying niche in the social order Middlebrow on the other hand evolves from myth tradition and relates lessons on what personal adjustments need to be made to succeed in the economic order Middlebrow novels most reflect the time and place of their writing because conditions for economic survival change more than conditions for social survival Arguing that what most distinguishes highbrow from lowbrow is the audience highbrow writers try to separate from the flock lowbrow writers to include This study differs from such well known studies of popular fiction as John Cawelti's and Janice Radway's in looking beyond the surface
