Uusivuori,2012-12-06 This book addresses current global and regional issues concerning the world's forests, societies and the environment from an independent and non-governmental point of view. A main message is that cooperation on a global scale is not only commendable but essential if solutions to the problems facing the world's forests are to be found. To achieve this, modern science needs to find a clearer picture of relationships between forests, human activity and the environment and of the consequences of environmental change for the ability of societies to survive. Part I: Editorial Perspectives is analyzing the ongoing globalization processes of forests, societies and the environment. Part II: Society and Environment reviews worldwide trends with significance for the future of forests and forestry. While the trends are influenced by forest sector issues, that sector is influenced to a much larger extent by external factors such as demography, urbanization or technological development. Part III: Importance of Forests looks at the value of the goods and services of forests, tangible and intangible, market and non-market, and concludes that failure to recognize their full value is one of the crucial impediments to sustainable development. In Part IV: Global Forum, scientists take up global forestry themes: deforestation, trade and the environment, climate change, biodiversity, with the aim of stimulating wider discussion. Part V: Regional Forum looks at major themes of particular relevance to Africa, Asia, Pacific, Latin America, North America and Europe, such as farm and agroforestry, corruption and concessions, urban forestry and environmental conflicts. Part VI introduces the special theme: forest sectors in transition economies. Teams of scientists from Russia and China focus on the implications of the transition from plan to market economy, illuminating both the very different nature of the forest sector in the two countries and the different transition paths that they have adopted. In the past millennium, the entire world has been discovered. In the past half century, the contribution of forests to the economy worldwide has been perceived, while only recently have their societal and environmental benefits been globally recognized. Globalization is a demanding process requiring knowledge and information. This book offers knowledge, facts and information but also values from diverse human and cultural perspectives about world forests, society and environment to help us towards equity in our use of the global forest, to create a clearer vision on a unassylva.

Forest Resource Policy in Latin America Ronnie de Camino, Julio C. Tresierra, Ramón López, Thomas Kelly, Markku Simula, Kari Keipi, Carlos Felipe Jaramillo, Olli Haltia, Jared J. Hardner, Marc J. Dourojeanni, Jan G.

Laarman, Richard Rice, 2000-01-01 Forest Resource Policy in Latin America gathers the thinking of a score of experts on sustainable use and management of forests, including incentives for investment. The authors tackle the thorny social issues of property rights, deforestation and forest management and ownership by indigenous people and take a hard look at the trade and environmental issues in forest production that will affect future directions for sustainable forestry development in Latin America. Some argue that the main opportunity to conserve natural forests lies in recognizing and paying for the environmental services they provide. In addition, compensatory measures such as the establishment and better management of strictly protected areas appear to be the best tools to delay the loss of ecosystems and species. Alternative forest concession policies and trade and environmental issues in forest production are also analyzed
