The Ideological Origins of African American Literature Phillip M. Richards, 2025-06-27 Inquiry into African American literature in recent decades has neglected to probe the intellectual structure of the tradition s aesthetics and its underlying ideology In The Ideological Origins of African American Literature Phillip M Richards begins this reconstructive work illuminating the dialectical backstory of black prose and poetry in America Richards argues that the social and political forces that influenced white literature were uniquely reacted to absorbed and often times rejected by African American literary figures from the eighteenth century Puritan notions of a God centered history to the onset of Romanticism and Modernism in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Building his case for ideological continuity Richards surveys a profoundly creative period of 125 years launched by an African American reaction against a racist mid eighteenth century American culture This epoch in African American literature saw a fusion of Puritan Protestant culture into a religious and secular worldview drawing in the poetry of Phillis Wheatley antebellum slave narratives Richard Allen and the periodicals of the ambitious African Methodist Episcopalian movement all of which would form the underlying foundation of a Black Victorian culture A rising black middle class Richards argues would later be secularized by an eroding religious tradition under the pressures of nineteenth century modernity the trauma of Jim Crow and the emerging northern ghetto Richards further traces the emergence of Romanticism which appeared with white American authors such as Emerson Thoreau and Whitman but would not take shape in African American literature until the likes of W E B Du Bois and Langston Hughes took stock of Anglo European culture at the end of the nineteenth century The Ideological Origins of African American Literature illustrates a pattern of black writing that eschews the hegemonic white culture of the day for an evolving black culture that would define an American literary landscape

Milton in the Arab-Muslim World Islam Issa, 2016-10-14 The first full length study of the reception of John Milton's 1608-74 writings in the Arab Muslim world this book examines the responses of Arab Muslim readers to Milton's works and in particular to his epic poem Paradise Lost. It contributes to knowledge of the history development and ways in which early modern writings are read and understood by Muslims. By mapping the literary and more broadly cultural consequences of the censure translation and abridgement of Milton's works in the Arab Muslim world this book analyses the diverse ways in which Arab Muslims read and understand a range of literary and religious aspects of Milton's writing in light of cultural theological socio-political linguistic and translational issues. After providing an overview of the presence of Milton and his works in the Arab world each chapter sheds light on how cultural and translational issues shape the ways in which Arab Muslim readers perceive and understand the characters and motifs of Paradise Lost. Chapters outline the ways in which the figures are currently understood in Milton scholarship before exploring how they fit into the narrative drama and theology of the poem and their position in Islamic creed and Arab Muslim culture. Concurrently each chapter examines the poem's subject matter in detail placing particular emphasis on matters of linguistic theological and cultural translation and accommodation. Chapter conclusions not only summarise the patterns and potentialities of reception but point towards the practical functions of Arab Muslim responses to Milton's writing and their contribution to the formation of social ideas.
