Mafikeng Campus Application Form 2016:

Students' participation in university governance in South Africa Vuyo Mthethwa, 2023-03-01 The purpose of this book is to examine the academic experiences of students who participated in university governance at South African universities. Scrutiny is placed on the alignment of student representative council constitutions and university statutes with the actual experiences students had in discharging their roles in governance and in the way this impacted their academic progress. Through a multi-site case study design, semi-structured interviews were conducted with members of the student representative council who participated in university governance and supported by document analysis and observations to generate the data. The study adopted Tinto's Integration Theory and Astin's Theory of Involvement as the two frameworks are based on the relationship between students' extra-curricular activity and their academic experiences. The study invokes a greater awareness of students as major stakeholders in governance and informs policies and practices that may better serve students' academic experiences. The study will contribute to the understanding of cooperative governance principles while drawing from the perspective of the students on their understanding, limitations and challenges in discharging their roles in university governance.

Polymer Nanocomposites for Advanced Engineering and Military Applications Ramdani, Noureddine, 2019-04-01 The field of polymer nanocomposites has become essential for engineering and military industries over the last few decades as it applies to computing, sensors, biomedical microelectronics, hard coating and many other domains. Due to their outstanding mechanical and thermal features, polymer nanocomposite materials have recently been developed and now have a wide range of applications. Polymer Nanocomposites for Advanced Engineering and Military Applications provides emerging research on recent advances in the fabrication methods, properties and applications of various nano fillers, including surface modification methods and chemical functionalization. Featuring coverage on a broad range of topics such as barrier properties, biomedical microelectronics and matrix processing, this book is ideally designed for engineers, industrialists, chemists, government officials, military professionals, practitioners, academicians, researchers and students.

Student Movements in Late Neoliberalism Lorenzo Cini, Donatella della Porta, César Guzmán-Concha, 2021-08-22 This book inquires into the global wave of student mobilizations that have arisen in the aftermath of the economic crisis of 2008, accounting for their historical and sociological significance. More specifically, its eleven chapters explore the role of students as political actors, their ability to build effective organizations to make political alliances with other actors and to win public consensus, as well as their impact on cultural, political and policy outcomes. To do so, the volume examines case studies in England, Chile, South Africa, Quebec and Hong Kong, covering Europe, Africa, Asia and North and Latin America. Grouped into two major sections, the collection covers the organizational structures of student movements and their alliances and outcomes. Ultimately, this volume examines the understudied political aspects of student unrest, exploring how student mobilizations driven by indebtedness, precariousness, the corporatization of the university and

The Changing Face of Colonial Education in Africa Peter Kallaway,2021-07-29 The Changing Face of Colonial Education in Africa offers a detailed and nuanced perspective of colonial history based on 15 years of research that throws fresh light on the complexities of African history and the colonial world of the first half of the twentieth century It provides an analytical background to the history of education in the colonial context by balancing contributions by missionary agencies colonial government humanitarian agencies scientific experts and African agents It offers a foundation for the analysis of modern educational policy for the postcolonial state It attempts to move beyond cliché about colonial education to an understanding of the complexities of how educational policy was developed in different places at different times while giving credence to arguments that see schooling as a form of social control in the colonial environment. It is essential reading for academics, researchers and policymakers looking to better understand colonial education and contextualize modern developments related to the decolonizing African education. It is intended to provide an essential background for policy makers by demonstrating the significance of a historical perspective for an understanding of contemporary educational challenges in Africa and elsewhere.

Apartheid's Black Soldiers Lennart Bolliger, 2021-10-01

New oral histories from Black Namibian and Angolan troops who fought in apartheid South Africa's security forces reveal their involvement and its impact on their lives to be far more complicated than most historical scholarship has acknowledged. In anticolonial struggles across the African continent, tens of thousands of African soldiers served in the militaries of colonial and settler states. In southern Africa, they often made up the bulk of these militaries and in some contexts far outnumbered those who fought in the liberation movements' armed wings. Despite these soldiers' significant impact on the region's military and political history, this dimension of southern Africa's anticolonial struggles has been almost entirely ignored in previous scholarship. Black troops from Namibia and Angola spearheaded apartheid South Africa's military intervention in their countries' respective anticolonial war and postindependence civil war. Drawing from oral history interviews and archival sources, Lennart Bolliger challenges the common framing of these wars as struggles of national liberation fought by and for Africans against White colonial and settler state armies. Focusing on three case studies of predominantly Black units commanded by White officers, Bolliger investigates how and why these soldiers participated in South Africa's security forces and considers the legacies of that involvement. In tackling these questions, he rejects the common tendency to categorize the soldiers as collaborators and traitors and reveals the un-national facets of anticolonial struggles. Finally, the book's unique analysis of apartheid military culture shows how South Africa's military units were far from monolithic and instead developed distinctive institutional practices, mythologies and concepts of militarized masculinity.
