When they touch
sparks ignite.

The Importance of Feeling English Leonard Tennenhouse, 2016-07-26 American literature is typically seen as something that inspired its own conception and that sprang into being as a cultural offshoot of America's desire for national identity But what of the vast precedent established by English literature which was a major American import between 1750 and 1850 In The Importance of Feeling English Leonard Tennenhouse revisits the landscape of early American literature and radically revises its features Using the concept of transatlantic circulation he shows how some of the first American authors from poets such as Timothy Dwight and Philip Freneau to novelists like William Hill Brown and Charles Brockden Brown applied their newfound perspective to pre existing British literary models These American re writings would in turn inspire native British authors such as Jane Austen and Horace Walpole to reconsider their own ideas of subject household and nation The enduring nature of these literary exchanges dramatically recasts early American literature as a literature of diaspora Tennenhouse argues and what made the settlers writings distinctly and indelibly American was precisely their insistence on reproducing Englishness on making English identity portable and adaptable Written in an incisive and illuminating style The Importance of Feeling English reveals the complex roots of American literature and shows how its transatlantic movement aided and abetted the modernization of Anglophone culture at large

Mark Sandy, 2016-04-08 Concerned with the intermingled thematic and formal preoccupations of Romantic thought and literary practice in works by twentieth century British Irish and American artists this collection examines the complicated legacy of Romanticism in twentieth century novels poetry and film Even as key twentieth century cultural movements have tried to subvert or debunk Romantic narratives of redemptive nature individualism perfectibility and the transcendence of art the forms and modes of feeling associated with the Romantic period continue to exert a signal influence on the modern moment both as a source of tension and as creative stimulus As the essays here show the exact meaning of the Romantic bequest may be bitterly contested but it has been difficult to leave behind The contributors take up a wide range of authors including Virginia Woolf F Scott Fitzgerald W H Auden Doris Lessing Seamus Heaney Hart Crane William Faulkner Don DeLillo and Jonathan Franzen What emerges from this lively volume is a fuller picture of the persistence and variety of the Romantic period s influence on the twentieth century
