Mind the Gap Nina Namaste, Amanda Sturgill, 2023-07-03 There is growing awareness that global learning is not confined to university credit bearing off campus international programs and that institutions of higher learning have up until now conceived of global education too narrowly Global learning through study abroad and off campus domestic study fits into a larger context of students educational experiences You can find global learning as part of other high impact practices domestic off campus programs undergraduate research and service or community based learning all can be global learning opportunities On campus global learning can occur in the disciplines and in the core curriculum as well Language and culture anthropology sociology and other departments multicultural centers and diversity and inclusivity offices to name a few also teach students to be global learners Global learning pertains to the many staff and faculty educators who intentionally encourage students to engage with and successfully navigate difference Thus there is a growing need for bridging across disciplinary and administrative silos that are culturally bound within academia The gaps between these silos matter as students seek to integrate off and on campus learning Higher education needs a new holistic assessment of global learning This book investigates not just student learning but also faculty experiences program structures and pathways that impact global learning and expands the context of global learning to show its antecedents and impacts as a part of the larger higher education experience Chapters look at recent developments such as short term off campus international study and certificate medallion programs as well as blended learning environments and undergraduate research all in the context of multi institutional comparisons Global learning is also situated in a larger university context A Series on Engaged Learning and Teaching Book Visit the books companion website hosted by the Center for Engaged Learning for book resources

Making Open Development Inclusive Matthew L. Smith, Ruhiya Kristine Seward, 2020-08-25 Drawing on ten years of empirical work and research analyses of how open development has played out in practice A decade ago a significant trend toward openness emerged in international development Open development can describe initiatives as disparate as open government open health data open science open education and open innovation The theory was that open systems related to data science and innovation would enable more inclusive processes of human development This volume drawing on ten years of empirical work and research analyzes how open development has played out in practice Focusing on development practices in the Global South the contributors explore the crucial questions of who is allowed to participate when an initiative is open and who benefits or not from them finding that processes characterized as open can sometimes be exclusionary in their implementation Examining a wide range of cases they consider the governance of open development ecosystems and the implementation of a variety of applications including open educational resources collaborative science and the uses of crowdsourcing Contributors Denisse Albornoz Chris Armstrong Savita Bailur Roxana Barrantes Carla Bonina Michael Ca ares Leslie Chan Laura Czerniewicz Jeremy de Beer Stefano De Sabbata Shirin Elahi Alison Gillwald Mark Graham Rebecca Hillyer Cheryl Hodgkinson Williams Dick Kawooya Erika Kramer Mbula Paulo Matos Caroline Ncube Chidi Oguamanam Angela Okune Alejandro Posada Nagla Rizk Isaac Rutenberg Tobias Schonwetter Fabrizio Scrollini Ruhiya Kristine Seward Raed Sharif Matthew Smith William Randall Spence Henry Trotter Fran ois van Schalkwyk Sonal Zavaeri
