scores and therefore the highest hunger levels are still found in Africa south of the Sahara and South Asia Despite achieving the largest absolute improvements since 2000 these two regions still suffer from serious levels of hunger Levels of hunger are alarming or serious in 52 countries Most of the eight countries with alarming GHI scores are in Africa south of the Sahara While no countries are classified in the extremely alarming category this year this high level of hunger could still exist Due to insufficient data 2015 GHI scores could not be calculated for places that recently suffered from high levels of hunger including Burundi Comoros Democratic Republic of the Congo Eritrea Somalia South Sudan and Sudan 2015 Global Hunger Index Interactive App <http://ghi.ifpri.org>

Why are women more food insecure than men? Exploring socioeconomic drivers and the role of COVID-19 in widening the global gender gap

Mane, E., Giaquinto, A.M., Cafiero, C., Viviani, S., Anríquez, G., 2024-03-05 Women face a higher prevalence of food insecurity than do men both on a global scale and across all regions This paper delves into the global determinants contributing to the gender gap in food insecurity and explores how the COVID 19 pandemic influenced its trajectory Additionally it estimates the impact of improvements in food security and incomes possible if gender gaps on farm productivity and wages were closed Utilizing data from the Food Insecurity Experience Scale gathered from over 700 000 individuals across 121 countries this study reveals that individuals aged 25 34 years irrespective of their gender and women residing in rural areas have been disproportionately affected by the pandemic The econometric model allows the authors to estimate the elasticities of food security to income which they then use to simulate the potential macrolevel benefits for the economy and food security if we were to eliminate the gender gaps in farm productivity and wages within agrifood systems The findings suggest that addressing these disparities could result in an approximate USD 1 trillion increase in global gross domestic product and lift approximately 45 million people out of food insecurity Additionally the authors estimate that eliminating these gender disparities could reduce the current gap in food insecurity between women and men by at least 57 percent This background paper was prepared to inform Chapters 1 and 6 of FAO's report on The status of women in agrifood systems
