Knapp, 1996 This book provides an analytical overview of the vast range of historiography which was produced in western Europe over a thousand year period between c 400 and c 1500 Concentrating on the general principles of classical rhetoric central to the language of this writing alongside the more familiar traditions of ancient history biblical exegesis and patristic theology this survey introduces the conceptual sophistication and semantic rigour with which medieval authors could approach their narratives of past and present events and the diversity of ends to which this history could then be put By providing a close reading of some of the historians who put these linguistic principles and strategies into practice from Augustine and Orosius through Otto of Freising and William of Malmesbury to Machiavelli and Guicciardini it traces and questions some of the key methodological changes that characterise the function and purpose of the western historiographical tradition in this formative period of its development International Perspectives on Voluntary Action

David Lewis, 2013-11-05 This text presents a perspective on the third sector Rather than considering non governmental development organizations and voluntary agencies separately it explores the similarities differences and growing connections between them in both northern and southern contexts Authors in the field consider the differences in scale and priority that exist between different types of third sector organizations in different settings as well as the common challenges of accountability legitimacy effectiveness and governance Models of learning and communication including southern ideas such as micro credit provision are also examined as are the continuing barriers Education Between State, Markets, and Civil Society Heinz-Dieter Meyer, William Lowe Boyd, 2001-05 Scholars from the US Europe explore the promise of civil society to rejuvenate systems of public education that are frequently characterized by bureaucratic over regulation lack of diversity and choice and inequality of opportunity The Nonprofit Sector in Italy Gian Paolo Barbetta, 1997 Analysis the nonprofit

Alexander, Ronald Jacobs, Philip Smith, 2012-01-26 Since sociologists returned to the study of culture in the past several decades a pursuit all but anathema for a generation cultural sociology has emerged as a vibrant field Edited by three leading cultural sociologists The Oxford Handbook of Cultural Sociology presents the full theoretical and methodological vitality of this critically significant new area The Handbook gathers together works by authors confronting the crucial choices all cultural sociologists face today about analytic priorities methods topics epistemologies ideologies and even modes of writing It is a vital collection of preeminent thinkers studying the ways in which culture society politics and economy interact in the world Organized by empirical areas of study rather than particular theories or competing intellectual strands the Handbook addresses power politics and states economics and organization mass media social movements religion aesthetics knowledge and health Allowing the reader to observe tensions as well as convergences the collection displays the value of cultural sociology not as a niche discipline but as a way to view and understand the many facets of contemporary society The first of its kind The Oxford Handbook of Cultural Sociology offers comprehensive and immediate access to the real developments and disagreements taking place in the field and deftly exemplifies how cultural sociology provides a new way of seeing and modeling social facts Philanthropic Foundations Ellen Condliffe Lagemann, 1999-07-22 Foundations are socially and politically significant but this simple fact has mostly been ignored by students of American history This collection represents an important contribution to an emerging field Kenneth Prewitt Social Science Research Council

Global Standards, 1992 Strategy Mix for Nonprofit Organisations Annette E. Zimmer, Christina Stecker, 2013-03-19 In many countries particularly in continental Europe societies have been plagued by high unemployment for several decades Simultaneously due to recent shifts from industrial to service oriented post industrial societies labor as a significant culture code is increasingly losing importance Because of this the third or voluntary sector as a place of employment and as a service agency to society has become important for Europe as indicated by the 1997 Communication of the European Commission and various declarations by the European Parliament and the EU s Economic and Social Council

Strategy Mix for Nonprofit Organizations Vehicles for Social and Labor Market Integration explores the role of the third sector in Europe where unemployment is high and in North America where unemployment is rising and exploring the gaps that the third sector is fulfilling both as a social service and as an employer The volume is organized into two distinctive parts Part 1 The Nonprofit Sector and Social Integration highlights the embeddedness of the sector in selected countries it discusses how the sector is currently affected by changes of public policy particularly in the traditional social democratic welfare state regimes and it draws our attention to the sector's potentials to provide avenues for social integration self actualization and civic empowerment Part 2 Labor Concepts and Market Integration refers to the multifunctionality of third sector organizations discussing potentials of workplace as well as community involvement via nonprofit organizations This seminal volume will be of interest to those in the nonprofit sector organizational management and economics political scientists and other researchers working with nonprofit organizations and civil society studies on an international level

Privatization in Four European Countries Ralph M. Kramer, 2019-07-04 This book has a dual focus on how four countries use voluntary non profit organizations to provide services to the physically mentally and sensorially handicapped and on the changing role of the voluntary or third sector in welfare states At the same time it is also a comparative study of privatization in the special sense of using nongovernmental organizations to implement public policy Most comparative studies of the welfare state have neglected this form of indirect public administration because researchers have usually conceived of government as monolithic and consequently overlook the frequent separation of financing from the delivery of public services

The Ambiguous Embrace Charles L. Glenn, 2002-02-10 This is a time of far reaching change and debate in American education and social policy spurred in part by a rediscovery that civil society institutions are often better than government at meeting human needs As Charles Glenn shows in this book faith based schools and social agencies have been particularly effective especially in meeting the needs of the most vulnerable However many oppose providing public funds for religious institutions either on the grounds that it would threaten the constitutional separation of church and state or from concern it might dilute or secularize the distinctive character of the institutions themselves Glenn tackles these arguments head on He builds a uniquely comprehensive and persuasive case for faith based organizations playing a far more active role in American schools and social agencies And most importantly he shows that they could do so both while receiving public funds and while striking a workable balance between accountability and autonomy Glenn is ideally placed to make this argument A leading expert on international education policies he was for many years the director of urban education and civil rights for the Massachusetts Department of Education and also serves as an Associate Minister of inner city churches in Boston Glenn draws on all his varied experience here as he reviews the policies and practices of governments in the United States and Europe as they have worked with faith based schools and also with such social agencies as the Salvation Army and Teen Challenge He seeks to answer key theoretical and practical questions Why should government make greater use of faith based providers How could they do so without violating First Amendment limits What working relationships protect the goals and standards both of government and of the organizations that the government funds Glenn shows that with appropriate forms of accountability and a strong commitment to a distinctive vision of service faith based organizations can collaborate safely with government to their mutual benefit and that of those they serve This is a major contribution to one of the most important topics in political and social debate today Private Action and the Public Good Walter W. Powell, Elisabeth S. Clemens, 1998-03-30 Governments around the world are turning over more of their services to private or charitable organizations as politicians and pundits celebrate participation in civic activities But can nonprofits provide more and higher quality services than governments or for profit businesses Will nonprofits really increase social connectedness and civic engagement This book a sequel to Walter W Powell s widely acclaimed The Nonprofit Sector A Research Handbook brings together an original collection of writings that explores the nature of the public good and how private nonprofit organizations relate to it The contributors to this book eminent sociologists political scientists management scholars historians and economists examine the nonprofit sector through a variety of theoretical and methodological lenses They consider the tensions between the provision of public goods and the interests of members and donors in nonprofit organizations They contrast religious and secular nonprofits as well as private and nonprofit provision of child care mental health services and health care And they explore the growing role of nonprofits in the United States France Germany and Eastern Europe the contribution of nonprofits to economic development and the forms and strategies of private action
