Taking Persons Seriously Mihretu P. Guta, Scott B. Rae, 2024-06-06 This volume attempts to show why ontology matters for a proper grasp of issues in bioethics

Contemporary discussions on bioethics often focus on seeking solutions for a wide range of issues that revolve around persons. The issues in question are multi-layered, involving such diverse aspects as the metaphysical, ontological, personal, medical, moral, legal, cultural, social, political, religious, and environmental. In navigating through such a complex web of issues, it has been said that the central problems philosophers and bioethicists face are ethical in nature. In this regard, biomedical sciences and technological breakthroughs take a leading role in terms of shaping the sorts of questions that give rise to ethical problems. For example, is it ethical to keep terminally ill patients alive on dialysis machines or artificial ventilators? Is it ethical to take someone's vital organs upon death and transplant them into another person's body without any prior consent from the deceased person? Reproductive techniques also raise complicated ethical issues involving in vitro fertilization, contraceptives, prenatal testing, abortions, and genetic enhancements. Moreover, biomedical issues raise ethical problems regarding research on human subjects, stem cell research, and enhancement biotechnology. The beginning and end of life issues bring up their own complicated ethical conundrums involving, among other things, terminating life support and euthanasia. This book approaches such complex bioethical questions by engaging in ground-level debates about the ontology of persons. This is a nonnegotiable first step in taking steps forward in seeking a plausible solution(s) for the complex ethical problems in bioethics.

Christian Worldview and the Academic Disciplines Deane E. D. Downey, Stanley E.

Porter, 2009-04-15. This book, an edited compilation of twenty-nine essays, focuses on the differences that a Christian worldview makes for the disciplines or subject areas normally taught in liberal arts colleges and universities. Three initial chapters of introductory material are followed by twenty-six essays, each dealing with the essential elements or issues in the academic discipline involved. These individual essays on each discipline are a unique element of this book. These essays also treat some of the specific differences in perspective or procedure that a biblically informed Christian perspective brings to each discipline. Christian Worldview and the Academic Disciplines is intended principally as an introductory textbook in Christian worldview courses for Christian college or university students. This volume will also be of interest to Christian students in secular post-secondary institutions who may be encountering challenges to their faith, both implicit and explicit, from peers or professors who assume that holding a strong Christian faith and pursuing a rigorous college or university education are essentially incompatible. This book should also be helpful for college and university professors who embrace the Christian faith but whose post-secondary academic background, because of its secular orientation, has left them inadequately prepared to intelligently apply the implications of their faith to their particular academic specialty. Such specialists, be they professors or upper-level graduate students, will find the extensive bibliographies of recent scholarship at the end of the individual chapters particularly helpful. Downey and Porter present a unique contribution to the perennial question of how faith interacts with the academic disciplines. Numerous factors contribute to this book's significance: the common conviction that one's Christian beliefs ought to shape the contents of one's teaching; the variety of perspectives and opinions and the wide range of academic disciplines under discussion The essays originating among the excellent faculty of Trinity Western University will deservedly be much used in undergraduate colleges and universities Hans Borsma J I Packer Professor of Theology Regent College Few faculty Christian or otherwise understand what their colleagues in other departments are doing or why This collection of essays is not only an excellent introduction to the whole scope of academic enterprises but to the unique and important relationship between each discipline and the Christian faith An important book not only for the entire range of faculty but for students yearning to understand both their Christian faith and what is being taught in the classroom James W Sirf author of the Universe Next Door and with co author carl Peraino Deepest Differences A Christian Atheist Dialogue Christian Worldview and the Academic Disciplines is a book long overdue It will serve as an outstanding textbook for interdisciplinary courses But this book is more than that Christian Worldview and the Academic Disciplines is a book that everyone concerned with Christian thought especially in the context of the Academy will want to read I highly recommend it Craig A Evans Payment Distinguished Professor of New Testament Acadia Divinity College Nova Scotia
