

Counselor: Some of the topics will be considered sensitive to other people and if I stumble about that topic and you are not comfortable talking about it then it's okay, just let me know. Then we are not going to talk about it. If you want to talk about it later then we can talk about it later. Was that okay for you?

Client: Yes, it is.

Counselor: Okay. So, who suggested that you come to see me?

Client: Well, I have had this friend for how many years and she is knowledgeable about mental health awareness. She has always been my go-to person and she told me that I might need professional help so I considered it.

Counselor: So, coming here was a favor to your friend?

Client: Yeah. Sort of.

Counselor: Okay. What prompted you to come to seek treatment now? Are there any problems or issues that might be going on in your life?

Client: Yes.

Counselor: Can you identify it?

Client: Well, I just feel kind of anxious every time I go to work.

Counselor: Where do you work and how long have you been working there?

Client: Uhm, I have been working as an assistant in a marketing company for about a year now.

Counselor: Okay, thank you for that. So, you're telling me that you feel anxious every time you go to work.

Client: Yes.

Counselor: I'm sorry you've been dealing with that. We encountered a lot of that here in the practice, so you are not alone.

Client: It's all right, I guess.

Counselor: SO, when did it start?

Client: I guess it started way back the first day of my work. I mean, I know it is normal to be nervous on the first day but it seems like it stayed in me, the anxiety was still there.

Counselor: So, you mean from the very start of your work? How bad does it get?

Client: Well, every time I feel anxious, I get sweaty, my heart is just racing and I can't interact with other people well except for work purposes, I just have to do it.

And a Time to Die Sharon Kaufman, 2005-04-19 A reassuring and illuminating examination on our conflicting wishes about the end of life how the politics and routines of the American hospital have formed our understanding and experience of death and ultimately why what we consider a good death is so hard to attain In a penetrating and revelatory study medical anthropologist Dr Sharon Kaufman uses two years of intensive observations and interviews with scores of patients family members physicians nurses social workers and other staff at several community hospitals in California to explore the heart of a science driven yet fractured and often irrational world of health care delivery where empathetic yet frustrated hard working yet constrained professionals both respond to and create the anxieties and often inchoate expectations of patients and families who must make decisions they are ill prepared to make She sought out the critically ill the dying and their friends and relatives She followed patients from admission to death days weeks or sometimes months later through what is often for them and their families a Kafkaesque journey She asked hospital staff what they were doing and why and stood beside doctors and nurses observing their work cynicism compassion and frustration And she paid close attention to the most important player of all the hospital bureaucracy and how it impacts the manner and timing of patient death Her investigative research links together the emotional experiences of patients and families the dedicated work of hospital staff and the ramifications of institutional bureaucracy to show the invisible power of the hospital system itself its rules mandates and daily activity in organizing death and individual experience of it The book is the story of real patients and their families an account of what drives the American hospital today and a report on the complex sources and implications of doing something about death EMDR Group Therapy Regina Morrow Robinson, Safa Kemal Kaptan, 2023-11-04 Delivers an EMDR model that can expand access to urgently needed mental health services while maintaining affordability This innovative handbook is the first to present EMDR Group Therapy as a pragmatic approach to trauma care that enables practitioners to scale up mental health services while ensuring cost and time efficiency It delivers step by step guidance supported by real life case examples for practicing this safe effective and culturally adaptable modality in a wide range of situations and conditions EMDR group protocols are applicable to inpatient and outpatient settings strangers experiencing similar or different events families and a wide range of ages The book explores how and why EMDR group protocols are applicable to disaster response addictions schools medical challenges grief families refugees victims of sexual violence emergency responders and more The text describes the theoretical underpinnings and practical applications of EMDR Group Therapy comparing nine group protocols through the lens of the eight phases of EMDR therapy and early intervention principles It emphasizes the concept of task sharing allowing nonspecialist facilitators to deliver low intensity EMDR treatment options effectively To promote in depth understanding chapters provide Learning Objectives Learned Through Experience boxes Case Examples focusing on a variety of specific groups and problems Discussion Questions to reinforce knowledge and unique Pocket Guides refining protocols and derived techniques in a clear snapshot A full Glossary of terms is also provided at the end of the book Key Features The first book to disseminate the principles and applications of Group EMDR Therapy Delivers the knowledge of 36 contributing EMDR experts and researchers from 11 countries Follows the eight phases of standard EMDR protocol Offers a window into EMDR practice with a broad variety of specific groups and topics Detailed cultural competence checklist for practitioners to provide care with respect for diversity Includes multiple Case Examples Learning Objectives Learned Through Experience boxes figures and charts and much more Provides Pocket Guides for a clear easy to follow snapshot of group EMDR protocols Working on a New Play Edward M.
