Blood Relations Chris Knight, 2013-10-15 The emergence of symbolic culture is generally linked with the development of the hunter-gatherer adaptation based on a sexual division of labor This original and ingenious book presents a new theory of how this symbolic domain originated Integrating perspectives of evolutionary biography and social anthropology within a Marxist framework Chris Knight rejects the common assumption that human culture was a modified extension of primate behavior and argues instead that it was the product of an immense social sexual and political revolution initiated by women Culture became established says Knight when evolving human females began to assert collective control over their own sexuality refusing sex to all males except those who came to them with provisions Women usually timed their ban on sexual relations with their periods of infertility while they were menstruating and to the extent that their solidarity drew women together these periods tended to occur in synchrony The result was that every month with the onset of menstruation sexual relations were ruptured in a collective ritualistic way as the prelude to each successful hunting expedition This ritual act was the means through which women motivated men not only to hunt but also to concentrate energies on bringing back the meat Knight shows how this hypothesis sheds light on the roots of such cultural traditions as totemic rituals incest and menstrual taboos blood sacrifice and hunters' atonement rites Providing detailed ethnographic documentation he also explains how Native American Australian Aboriginal and other magico-religious myths can be read as derivatives of the same symbolic logic

A Latino Reading of Race, Kinship, and the Empire Rodolfo Galvan Estrada III, 2023-01-16 This book provides a Latino reading of John's prologue with special attention to how the themes of race kinship and the empire are part of the gospel's racial rhetoric By drawing from the insights of Latinx texts and theology this book reveals how the prologue provides a lens to read the entire gospel with a keen awareness of Jesus's engagement with people groups from his own family to the Roman authorities The prologue participates in the gospel's racial rhetoric by shaping the reader's racial imagination even before a person enters the narrative By doing so Jesus's identity becomes constructed and defined through racial rhetoric since the opening verses of John's gospel

Moroccan Islam Dale F. Eickelman,2014-07-03 This book is one of the first comprehensive studies of Islam as locally understood in the Middle East Specifically it is concerned with the prevalent North African belief that certain men called marabouts have a special relation to God that enables them to serve as intermediaries and to influence the well being of their clients and kin Dale F Eickelman examines the Moroccan pilgrimage center of Boujad and unpublished Moroccan and French archival materials related to it to show how popular Islam has been modified by its adherents to accommodate new social and economic realities In the course of his analysis he demonstrates the necessary interrelationship between social history and the anthropological study of symbolism Eickelman begins with an outline of the early development of Islam in Morocco emphasizing the maraboutic crisis of the fourteenth through sixteenth centuries He also examines the history and social characteristics of the Sherqawi religious lodge on which the study focuses in preprotectorate Morocco In the central portion of the book he analyzes the economic activities and social institutions of Boujad and its rural hinterland as well as some basic assumptions the townspeople and tribesmen make about the social order Finally there is an intensive discussion of maraboutism as a phenomenon and the changing local character of Islam in Morocco In focusing on the folk level of Islam rather than on high culture tradition the author has made possible a more general interpretation of Moroccan society that is in contrast with earlier accounts that postulated a marked discontinuity between tribe and town past and present Haunted by Paradise
