The Blue Revolution Ian R. Calder, 1999 The Blue Revolution discusses the revolution that is underway in the development of new plans strategies and designs for land use and all water related developments Calder provides fresh information on land water interactions that dispel much of the mythology that has hindered rational land use and water resource decision making in the past This essential guide to recent breakthroughs in water resource management will prove indispensable to policymakers researchers and students of hydrology geography biology and environmental sciences

Water Resources Management VI C. A. Brebbia, Viktor Popov, 2011 The biennial Water Resources Management conference is one of the most important of several water related conferences organised by the Wessex Institute of Technology As water becomes an increasingly precious resource communities all over the world Are under extreme pressure to ensure its continued adequate supply to their populations It is therefore essential that those responsible for managing water resources share their expertise in dealing with issues of water quality quantity management and planning as well as other related concerns that help or hinder sustainable management of this vital resource In this volume containing research on recent technological and scientific developments associated with the management of surface and sub surface water presented at the Sixth International Conference on Water Resources Management they do just that The research covers Water management and planning Waste water treatment management and re use Markets policies and contracts The right to water Urban water management Water quality Pollution control Irrigation problems River basin management Hydraulic engineering and Hydrological modelling Flood risk Decision support systems Remediation and renaturalisation Climate change and water resources Governance and monitoring Regional and geo politics of water Economics Water ecology Sanitation Wetlands and Extreme events Managing Europe's Water Resources Chad Staddon,2016-05-13 Illustrated with case studies which explain key concepts and provide practical examples this book provides a detailed and comprehensive introduction to water management issues from a European perspective The book begins with a brief history of water management followed by a consideration of the major frameworks used for managing water in its qualitative and quantitative aspects Several chapters treat key water management issues including dams privatization hydropolitics climate change and finally provides a synoptic treatment of major water management issues across Europe s geographical regions

Integrated Watershed Management H. M. Gregersen, Peter F. Ffolliott, Kenneth N. Brooks, 2007 As human populations expand and demands upon natural resources increase the need to manage the environments in which people live becomes more important but also more difficult Land and water management is especially critical as the use of upstream watersheds can drastically affect large numbers of people living in downstream watersheds An integrated approach that stresses both the importance of participatory planning and the institutional and technical constraints and opportunities is therefore necessary The institutional and technical context for managing watersheds and river basins including the involvement of both the public and private sectors is also examined Global Perspectives on Integrated Water Resources Management Vasudha Pangare, 2006 The basic concepts of Integrated Water Resource Management IWRM and the normative strategic and operative dimensions of the process are explained in simple unbiased terms in this guide Twelve case studies illustrate the scale and scope of river basin organization in different parts of the world from local projects such as the Gagas River Basin to larger transboundary basin work on the Mekong and the Rhine Environmental considerations institutional arrangements and implementation processes are also highlighted to increase understanding of these concepts within the context of IWRM

Land, Water and Development Malcolm Newson, 2008-09-17 Water is newsworthy there is or will be a world water crisis Aggravated by climate change we are approaching the limits of human exploitation of freshwater resources notably in growing essential food The complexities and uncertainties associated with improving our management of fresh water take the potential remedies out of the hands of simple local hard engineering and into much larger units the basin the ecosystem and the global context and also require longer term perspectives The Third Edition follows the same structure as its predecessors presenting the historical and scientific backgrounds to land water interactions and establishing the links with development processes and policies Throughout its two major messages are that our new philosophy should be one of humans in the ecosystem and that the guidance from science being uncertain and contested must be operationalized in a participatory system of governance based on participation Following a review of progress towards these elements in the developed world the international case studies update the situation in the developing world following the Millennium Development Goals our new emphasis on poverty and on global food supplies This book covers the multitude of scientific research findings development of tools and spatial temporal scale challenges which have emerged in the last decade Tensions are highlighted in the current and future role of large dams country studies are retained and considerably updated and development contexts are explored in greater depth as a dividing line in capacity to cope with land and water stress Technical issues have been expanded to cover major droughts environmental flows and the restoration of rivers and wetlands A separate chapter picks up these themes under terms of their relationship with uncertainty and the widespread perception that a new ethos of adaptive management is needed in the water sector For students of geography environmental science hydrology and development studies this innovative edition provides a reasoned academic basis of evidence for sustainable adaptive management of rivers and related large scale ecosystems using more than 600 new sources It will also prove invaluable for lecturers and practitioners

Hydrology and the Management of Watersheds Kenneth N. Brooks, Peter F. Ffolliott, Joseph A. Magner, 2012-10-01 This new edition is a major revision of the popular introductory reference on hydrology and watershed management principles methods and applications The book's content and scope have been improved and condensed with updated chapters on the management of forest woodland rangeland agricultural urban and mixed land use watersheds Case studies and examples throughout the book show practical ways to use web sites and the Internet to acquire data update methods and models and apply the latest technologies to issues of land and water use and climate variability and change

Transforming Water Management in South Africa Barbara Schreiner, Rashid M. Hassan, 2011-12-10 One of the early set of reforms that South Africa embarked on after emerging from apartheid was in the water sector following a remarkable consultative process The policy and legal reforms were comprehensive and covered almost all aspects of water management including revolutionary changes in defining and allocating rights to water radical reforms in water management and supply institutions the introduction of the protection of environmental flows and major shifts in charging for water use and in the provision of free basic water Over ten years of implementation of these policy and legislative changes mean that valuable lessons have already been learned and useful experiences gained in the challenge of effective water resources management and water services provision in a middle income country

Government-Society-Science in Transition Anthony R. Turton,Johanna Hanlie Hattingh,Gillian A. Maree,Dirk J. Roux,Marius Claassen,Wilma F. Strydom,2007-02-16 The last two decades have been marked by a dramatic increase in global attention to the concept of governance especially in relation to the effective and sustainable management of natural resources During this period issues of water governance have received particular attention for example in relation to the provision of reliable water supplies as a catalyst for poverty eradication Within the context of the Millennium Development Goals and against a backdrop of an increasing frequency of water crises ranging from widespread flooding to severe water scarcity it is essential that each country and particularly those countries that face development challenges should be in a position to ensure that access to water is available to those who need it most This issue has been highlighted by the Global Water Partnership which stated that the water crisis facing the world is in reality a crisis of governance The South African political environment has changed dramatically in recent years and the central concepts of social equity and the right to a healthy environment are now entrenched in the country's Constitution These concepts are supported by several new laws in particular the National Environmental Management Act and the National Water Act which in turn are based on the principles of sustainable development However despite the highly desirable attributes of these landmark pieces of legislation South African authorities are still struggling to implement the requirements of these Acts almost a decade after their promulgation

Bruijnzeel,2009-12-17 Forests Water and People in the Humid Tropics is a comprehensive review of the hydrological and physiological functioning of tropical rain forests the environmental impacts of their disturbance and conversion to other land uses and optimum strategies for managing them The book brings together leading specialists in such diverse fields as tropical anthropology and human geography environmental economics climatology and meteorology hydrology geomorphology plant and aquatic ecology forestry and conservation agronomy The editors have supplemented the individual contributions with invaluable overviews of the main sections and provide key pointers for future research Specialists will find authenticated detail in chapters written by experts on a whole range of people water land use issues managers and practitioners will learn more about the implications of ongoing and planned forest conversion while scientists and students will appreciate a unique review of the literature Data Mining:

Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications Management Association, Information Resources,2012-11-30 Data mining continues to be an emerging interdisciplinary field that offers the ability to extract information from an existing data set and translate that knowledge for end users into an understandable way Data Mining Concepts Methodologies Tools and Applications is a comprehensive collection of research on the latest advancements and developments of data mining and how it fits into the current technological world

Building climate-resilient dryland forests and agrosilvopastoral production systems Haddad, F.F., Ariza, C., Malmer, A., 2021-03-19 With climate change impacts already felt in the world's drylands there is an urgent need for action at various scales and initiated by different stakeholders to ensure the sustainability of food production and livelihoods in these regions in the coming decades There is also the need to rapidly establish baselines assess and start monitoring progress on sustainability emerging as result of the action taken To aid in this effort this paper provides a short list of expected transformations under each of the three sustainability pillars for guiding the planning and implementation of policy governance and practice level actions Gender and indigenous people's rights and knowledge will be considered cross cutting issues The expected transformations will be shared with and agreed by dryland experts and practitioners and will be complemented with additional relevant information sources and indicators However it is recommended that national and subnational governments programmes projects and individual practitioners and experts define the indicators they will use for measuring their own progress towards the expected transformations based on the availability of data and specific national and local conditions The paper will also present case studies portraying actions that have led to progress in sustainability and are directly related to the expected transformations A related policy brief Blooming Drylands will complement the paper and offer practical recommendations on how policymakers can reach the expected transformations

Integrated Water-resources Management in a River-basin Context ,2002 The main objective of the 5 day workshop was to present and discuss research being conducted by IWMI and IFPRI in selected river basins in the Asian region with financial support from the ADB through its regional technical assistance mechanism RETA The studies conducted by the two centers share some common goals and encompass work plans and methodologies that are highly complementary and mutually supportive

Valuation of Ecosystem Services from Nordic Watersheds David N. Barton, Nordic Council of Ministers, 2012-02-29 The emergence of the ecosystem services concept suggests that economic valuation studies are already fulfilling a role in raising awareness by demonstrating the loss of nature's goods and services using monetary indicators In order to have future relevance in capturing value and giving support to policy makers valuation methods must specifically address resource accounting priority setting and instrument design This report provides an overview of economic valuation methods of ecosystem services from watersheds in the Nordic countries The study was commissioned by the Nordic Council of Ministers and conducted by The Norwegian Institute for Nature Research The Norwegian Institute of Water Research and Sweco Norge during the period May November 2011 The study indicates that economic valuation methods can be applied to watershed management in multiple ways However policy makers should be wary of one size fits all valuation estimates that appear ready to use across different watershed types and stakeholder interests

The New Generation of Watershed Management Programmes and Projects ,2006-01-01 On the occasion of the International Year of Mountains 2002 FAO and its partners undertook a large scale assessment and global review of the current status and future trends of integrated and participatory watershed management The overall objectives were to promote the exchange and dissemination of experiences in implementing watershed management projects in the decade from 1990 to 2000 and to identify the vision for a new generation of watershed management programmes and projects This resource book represents a summary and critical analysis of the rich discussions and vast materials that emerged during the review as well as the review's findings and recommendations It presents the state of the art in watershed management promotes further reflection and creative thinking and proposes new ideas and approaches for future watershed management programmes and projects This publication has been written primarily for field level watershed management practitioners and local decision makers involved in watershed management at the district or municipality level It will also be a useful source of information for other readers such as senior officers and consultants specialized in other areas evaluators policy makers and students of watershed management

Forests Sourcebook World Bank, 2008-04-25 The Forests Sourcebook provides practical operations oriented guidance for forest sector engagement toward the goals of poverty reduction conservation and economic development Intended to guide World Bank lending activities and projects the Forests Sourcebook offers information useful to a broad audience of practitioners government agencies and non governmental organizations The Sourcebook was developed in partnership with members of the Collaborative Partnership on Forests including the Food and Agriculture Organization The Sourcebook provides background on key issues lessons learned and recommendations for practitioners on a number of topics including private sector engagement forest governance sustainable plantation and commercial harvesting and forest information management systems Giving insight into the complex interplay between different realms of development work that effect or are affected by forests the Forests Sourcebook is a valuable tool for any stakeholder involved in development or business projects that could have impact on forests
