John Basilone: World War II Medal of Honor Recipient for Action in the Pacific Philip Martin McCaulay, 2010-03-15

On October 24-25, 1942, Marine Sergeant John Basilone was in charge of two sections of heavy machine guns defending a narrow pass to Henderson Airfield on Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands. Although vastly outnumbered, John and his fellow Marines checked the assault by the Japanese. For that, Sgt Basilone was awarded the Medal of Honor and sent back to the states to appear at war bond rallies. He toured the country and met Hollywood starlets. His picture made the cover of Life magazine. But Sergeant Basilone was unsatisfied back home and volunteered to return to combat, ending up at Iwo Jima. Under heavy artillery fire on February 19, 1945, he singlehandedly took out an enemy blockhouse. Minutes later, he and four others in his platoon died in an artillery blast. Sergeant Basilone was posthumously awarded the Navy Cross and Purple Heart, making him the only enlisted Marine in World War II to receive all three medals.

Pacific Payback Stephen L. Moore, 2014-06-03

Deeply researched and well written. By far the most detailed account of USS Enterprise's dive bombers and their decisive role at the Battle of Midway. Sunday, December 7, 1941, dawned clear and bright over the Pacific. But for the Dauntless dive bomber crews of the USS Enterprise returning to their home base on Oahu, it was a morning from hell. Flying directly into the Japanese ambush at Pearl Harbor, they lost a third of their squadron and witnessed the heart of America's Navy broken and smoldering on the oil slicked waters below. The next six months, from Pearl Harbor to the Battle of Midway, a dark time during which the Japanese scored victory after victory. This small band of aviators saw almost constant deployment, intense carrier combat, and fearsome casualties. Many were killed by enemy Zero fighters, anti-aircraft fire, or deadly crash landings in the Pacific, while others were captured and spent years in POW camps. Yet the Enterprise's Dauntless crews would be the first to strike an offensive blow against Japanese installations in the Marshall Islands, would be the first to sink a Japanese warship, and would shepherd the Doolittle Raiders' bombing of Tokyo. Not until Midway, though, would Dauntless crews get the chance to settle the score and change the course of World War II. Drawing on dozens of new interviews and oral histories, author Stephen L. Moore brings to life inspiring stories of individual sacrifice and bravery and the sweeping saga of one of America's greatest triumphs.
