Contemporary Narrative and the Spectrum of Materiality Marco Caracciolo, 2023-07-04 How do physical things differ from non things human subjects animals abstract ideas or processes Those questions which are as old as philosophy itself have inspired contemporary debates in ecocriticism thing theory and in the interdisciplinary field of new materialism This book argues that contemporary narrative is well placed to map out and work through the spectrum of the material and the philosophical questions that underlie it This is because narrative does not resolve the tensions at the heart of conceptions of materiality but rather reframes them envisioning their implications and exploring their relevance to concrete contexts of human interaction This monograph is structured around a number of novels experimental fiction films and video games that imagine the inherent agency of things but also interrogate the affective and ethical significance of materiality in human terms Its aim is to demonstrate the power of formal narrative analysis to foster conceptually and ethically sophisticated ways of thinking about thingness in times of ecological crisis that is times in which stuff can no longer be taken for granted

The Rise of the Cyberzines: The Story of the Science-Fiction Magazines from 1991 to 2020 Mike Ashley,2022-02-15 Shortlisted for the Locus Science Fiction Foundation Non Fiction Award 2023 The Rise of the Cyberzines concludes Mike Ashley's five volume series which has tracked the evolution of the science fiction magazine from its earliest days in the 1920s to its current explosion via the internet. This series has traced the ways in which the science fiction magazine has reacted to the times and often led the way in breaking down barriers for example in encouraging a greater contribution by women writers and stimulating science fiction globally. Magazines have continued to build upon past revolutions such as the new wave and cyberpunk producing a blend of high tech science fiction and expansive speculative fiction that has broadened the understanding of science and its impact on society. This final volume which covers the years 1991-2020 shows how the online magazine has superseded the print magazine and has continued to break down barriers especially for the LGBTQ community and for writers of colour.

Extraterritorial Matthew Hart, 2020-08-25. The future of fiction is neither global nor national. Instead, Matthew Hart argues, it is trending extraterritorial. Extraterritorial spaces fall outside of national borders but enhance state power. They cut across geography and history but do not point the way to a borderless new world. They range from the United Nations headquarters and international waters to CIA black sites and the departure zones at international airports. The political geography of the present, Hart shows, has come to resemble a patchwork of such spaces. Hart reveals extraterritoriality's centrality to twenty-first century art and fiction. He shows how extraterritorial fictions expose the way states construct global space in their own interests. Extraterritorial novels teach us not to mistake cracks or gradations in political geography for a crisis of the state. Hart demonstrates how the unstable character of many twenty-first century aesthetic forms can be traced to the increasingly extraterritorial nature of contemporary political geography. Discussing writers such as Margaret Atwood, J.G. Ballard, Amitav Ghosh, Chang-rae Lee, Hilary Mantel, and China Miéville as well as artists like Hito Steyerl and Mark Wallinger, Hart combines lively critical readings of contemporary novels with historical and theoretical discussions about sovereignty, globalization, cosmopolitanism, and postcolonialism. Extraterritorial presents a new theory of literature that explains what happens when dreams of an open, connected world confront the reality of mobile, elastic, and tenacious borders.
