International Women's Rights Cases Robyn Emerton, Kirstine Adams, Andrew Byrnes, Jane Connors, 2016-09-17. The last two decades have seen major advances in the legal protection of the human rights of women around the world. A series of international and national court cases has developed an important body of jurisprudence that has been relied on by courts and advocates in many countries to support women's claims for equality and the full enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms. Growing out of a series of judicial colloquia organized by the Commonwealth Secretariat, this compilation brings together a selection of over fifty significant cases from international and national courts. The cases are grouped by theme and presented in full text or edited format. Together they highlight the way in which courts have used international human rights norms and national constitutional standards to contribute to women's equality. A detailed introduction provides a summary of the significance of the cases and references further material available on women's human rights. Cases decided under United Nations human rights treaties, the European and American Conventions on Human Rights and other international instruments as well as cases decided by national courts in Asia, Africa, Europe, Australasia and North America are all included. The compilation will be of interest to all those with an interest in the advancement of the human rights of women, especially equality advocates, lawyers and judges, scholars and students.

Enslaved Innocence Shakti Kak, Biswamoy Pati, 2012. Enslaved Innocence: Child Labour in South Asia explores the historical economic and social factors surrounding the issue of child labour. It is often argued that child labour is the result of underdevelopment, large families or cultural practices. This volume attempts to highlight the structural factors in capitalist societies that have made such exploitation possible and to place the issue of child labour in a theoretical framework relating to capitalist modes of production and the need for the generation of surplus for capital accumulation. Extremely exploitative labour processes bring out the supply and demand factors of child labour. The persistence of child labour in an era of high growth and high unemployment levels amongst adult men and women points to an economic system based heavily on exploitative labour relations. As we move further into the twenty-first century, the existence of child labour in the world is a reality which must be faced. It is within this context that the present volume takes into consideration the changing global economic conditions and focuses on issues and strategies for the eradication of child labour.
