Analysis Systems: Theory and Practice Seong-Whan Lee, Yasuaki Nakano, 2003-07-31 Recently there has been an increased interest in the research and development of techniques for components of complete document analysis systems. In recognition of this trend, a series of workshops on Document Analysis Systems commenced in 1994 under the leadership of Henry Baird. The first workshop held in Kaiserslautern, Germany, in October 1994 was chaired by Andreas Dengel and Larry Spitz. The second workshop on Document Analysis Systems was held in Malvern, PA, USA, in October 1996, chaired by Jonathan J. Hull and Suzanne Liebowitz Taylor. The DAS workshop has been one of the most prestigious technical meetings bringing together a large number of scientists and engineers from all over the world to express their innovative ideas and report on their latest achievements in the area of document analysis systems. The papers in this special book edition were rigorously selected from the Third IAPR Workshop on Document Analysis Systems DAS 98 held in Nagano, Japan, on 4-6 November 1998. It is worth mentioning that the papers were chosen for their original and substantial contributions to the workshop theme and this special book edition. From among the 53 papers that were presented by authors from 11 countries at the DAS 98, after critical reviews by at least three experts, we carefully selected 29 papers for this special book edition. Most of the contributions in this edition have been expanded or extensively revised to include helpful discussions, suggestions, or comments made during the workshop.

Introducing Methods for Field Research in Anthropology Pasquale De Marco, Introducing Methods for Field Research in Anthropology: A Comprehensive Guide for Students and Researchers. Anthropology is the study of humankind, and anthropological research methods are the tools that anthropologists use to understand the diverse cultures and societies of the world. This comprehensive guide provides a thorough overview of the methods used in anthropological research, from participant observation to interviews to data analysis. It is designed to be a practical resource for students and researchers who are new to anthropology, as well as a valuable reference for experienced anthropologists who want to learn more about the latest research methods. Divided into ten chapters, the book covers a wide range of topics, including Research design and ethics, Data collection methods, Sampling techniques, Data analysis methods, Interpretation and reporting of research findings, Ethical issues in anthropological research, Special topics in anthropological research such as action research, participatory research, indigenous research, and feminist research, and The future of anthropological research. Throughout the book, the authors emphasize the importance of reflexivity in anthropological research, arguing that anthropologists must be aware of their own biases and assumptions and must be willing to critically examine their own research practices. This reflexivity is essential for ensuring that anthropological research is accurate, ethical, and relevant to the people and communities that anthropologists study. With its clear and accessible style, practical advice, and wealth of examples from real-world research projects, Introducing Methods for Field Research in Anthropology is an essential resource for anyone interested in conducting anthropological research. It is a valuable tool for students, researchers, and anyone else who wants to learn more about the methods of anthropological research.
