Natural Products Lixin Zhang, Arnold L. Demain, 2007-11-17 A fresh examination of the past successes of natural products as medicines and their new future from both conventional and new technologies High performance liquid chromatography profiling combinatorial synthesis genomics proteomics DNA shuffling bioinformatics and genetic manipulation all now make it possible to rapidly evaluate the activities of extracts as well as purified components derived from microbes plants and marine organisms The authors apply these methods to new natural product drug discoveries to microbial diversity to specific groups of products Chinese herbal drugs antitumor drugs from microbes and plants terpenoids and arsenic compounds and to specific sources the sea rainforest and endophytes These new opportunities show how research and development trends in the pharmaceutical industry can advance to include both synthetic compounds and natural products and how this paradigm shift can be more productive and efficacious

Practical Pharmaceutical Laboratory Automation Brian D. Bissett, 2003-05-23 Laboratory automation is an increasingly important part of the job description of many laboratory scientists. Although many laboratory scientists understand the methods and principles involved in automation, most lack the necessary engineering and programming skills needed to successfully automate or interface equipment in the lab. A step by step how to reference and guide Practical Pharmaceutical Laboratory Automation explores the processes needed to automate the majority of tasks required in research today. The author discusses topics ranging from automated mathematical analysis to robotic automation of chemical processes to combinations of these and other processes. He presents a detailed discussion of high throughput screening and assay development and takes an in depth look at Visual Basic as the primary programming language used in laboratories. The text has a dedicated web site <http://www.pharmalabauto.com> that contains all the sample code and examples contained within the text as well as other information related to laboratory automation. Providing a starting point for tackling automation problems, Practical Pharmaceutical Laboratory Automation helps you develop a strategy for automation that gets consistent results.

Ome-wide Studies of Grapevine Fruit Composition and Responses to Agro-environmental Factors in the Era of Systems Biology José Tomás Matus, Simone Diego

Castellarin, Giovanni Battista Tornielli, 2019-12-06 Fruits play a substantial role in the human diet as a source of vitamins, minerals, dietary fiber and a wide range of molecules relevant to health promotion and disease prevention. The characterization of genes involved in the accumulation of these molecules during fruit development and ripening and in the overall plant's response to the environment constitutes a fundamental step for improving yield and quality related traits and for predicting this crop's behavior in the field. This is certainly the case for grapevine (Vitis vinifera L.), one of the most largely cultivated fruit crops in the world The cultivation of this species is facing challenging scenarios driven by climate change including increases in atmospheric carbon dioxide CO₂ solar radiation and earth surface temperature and decreases of water and nutrient availability All these events will potentially affect the grapevine phenology physiology and metabolism in many growing regions and ultimately affect the quality of their fruits and of the most important derived product the wine The sequencing of the grapevine genome has given rise to a new era characterized by the generation of large scale data that requires complex computational analyses Numerous transcriptomic and metabolomic studies have been performed in the past fifteen years providing insights into the gene circuits that control the accumulation of all sorts of metabolites in grapevines From now on the integration of two or more omics will allow depicting gene transcript metabolite networks from a more holistic i.e systems perspective This eBook attempts to support this new direction by gathering innovative studies that assess the impact of genotypes the environment and agronomical practices on fruits at the ome scale The works hereby collected are part of a Research Topic covering the use of omics driven strategies to understand how environmental factors and agronomical practices including microclimate modification e.g sunlight incidence or temperature water availability and irrigation and postharvest management affect fruit development and composition These studies report well settled transcriptomic and metabolomic methods in addition to newly developed techniques addressing proteome profiles genome methylation landscapes and ionomic signatures some of which attempt to tackle the influence of terroir i.e the synergic effect of micro climate soil composition grape genotype and vineyard practices A few reviews and opinions are included that focus on the advantages of applying network theory in grapevine research Studies on vegetative organs in their relation to fruit development and on fruit derived cell cultures are also considered Chemical Engineering Progress ,2004

Advances in Antimicrobial Coatings Sami Rtimi,2021-08-30 This book is motivated by our passion to compile recent research on antimicrobial surfaces We aimed to assemble research papers on the preparation of new materials antimicrobial testing using different pathogens bacteria fungi and viruses and the relationship between the coating nanostructure and its reactivity towards the studied pathogen s We believe that a good antimicrobial coating should be characterized by i a fast activity towards the pathogen ii sustainable activity based on the stability of the coating and iii the lowest possible toxicity for humans and reduced risks for the environment Striking a compromise between these different challenges is difficult and requires more research Electrochemical Remediation Technologies for Polluted Soils, Sediments and
