Agricultural Science Policy Julian M. Alston, Philip G. Pardey, Michael J. Taylor, 2001-01-01 Agricultural research and development have profoundly increased the quantity and quality of food production in the twentieth century As populations increase however and land and water resources become more scarce we must improve productivity and efficiency to provide adequate food supplies Issues such as the environment genetic diversity food safety poverty human health animal rights public versus private responsibilities and the question of intellectual property rights further complicate this task Agricultural Science Policy Changing Global Agendas consists of twelve chapters that describe important issues in agricultural science policy the relevant facts current economic thinking and new results Topics Include Changing Global Contexts and Agendas for Agricultural R Productivity Measures and Measurement Research Productivity and Natural Resources Research for Genetic Improvement and a Conclusion which suggests directions for the future The chapters in this volume will provide researchers and policy makers with a timely review of progress on the existing agenda as well as laying the foundation for a new agenda and new directions for global agricultural science policy in the 21st century Contributors Julian M Alston University of California Davis Walter J Armbruster President of the Farm Foundation Peter J Barry University of Illinois Wilfred Beckerman University of Oxford Derek Byerlee World Bank Barbara J Craig Oberlin College Robert Evenson Yale University Richard Gray University of Saskatchewan Zvi Griliches Harvard University Paul W Heisey U S Department of Agriculture Frances Homans University of Minnesota Peter Lindert University of California Davis Stavroula Malla University of Saskatchewan Philip G Pardey International Food Policy Research Institute and University of Minnesota Prabhu L Pingali International Maize and Wheat Improvement Center Ismail Serageldin World Bank and the American University in Cairo Michael J Taylor Department of Agriculture Fisheries and Forestry Australia Greg Traxler Auburn University James Wilen University of California Davis Brian Wright University of California Berkeley Published in cooperation with the International Food Policy Research Institute

Food Policy for Developing Countries Per Pinstrup-Andersen, Derrill D. Watson II, 2011-09-15 Despite technological advances in agriculture nearly a billion people around the world still suffer from hunger and poor nutrition while a billion are overweight or obese This imbalance highlights the need not only to focus on food production but also to implement successful food policies In this new textbook intended to be used with the three volumes of Case Studies in Food Policy for Developing Countries also from Cornell the 2001 World Food Prize laureate Per Pinstrup Andersen and his colleague Derrill D Watson II analyze international food policies and discuss how such policies can and must address the many complex challenges that lie ahead in view of continued poverty globalization climate change food price volatility natural resource degradation demographic and dietary transitions and increasing interests in local and organic food production Food Policy for Developing Countries offers a social entrepreneurship approach to food policy analysis Calling on a wide variety of disciplines including economics nutrition sociology anthropology environmental science medicine and geography the authors show how all elements in the food system function together Agricultural Research and Development in the Developing World: Too little, Too late? Hamsa K.R,Veerabhadrapa Bellundagi ,Prem Jose Vazhacharickal, The world s agricultural economy was transformed remarkably during the 20th century The agricultural productivity growth that fueled this change was generated primarily by agricultural Research and development R goal is to find the most appropriate system Investment in innovation is needed to support all components Role of institutions is vital partnerships and network are the cornerstones Feeding the World Giovanni Federico,2010-12-16 In the last two centuries agriculture has been an outstanding if somewhat neglected success story Agriculture has fed an ever growing population with an increasing variety of products at falling prices even as it has released a growing number of workers to the rest of the economy This book a comprehensive history of world agriculture during this period explains how these feats were accomplished Feeding the World synthesizes two hundred years of agricultural development throughout the world providing all essential data and extensive references to the literature It covers systematically all the factors that have affected agricultural performance environment accumulation of inputs technical progress institutional change commercialization agricultural policies and more The last chapter discusses the contribution of agriculture to modern economic growth The book is global in its reach and analysis and represents a grand synthesis of an enormous topic Agricultural R and D in the Developing World Philip G. Pardey,Julian M. Alston,Roley Piggott,2006 The world s agricultural economy was transformed remarkably during the 20th century The agricultural productivity growth that fueled this change was generated primarily by agricultural R D financed and conducted by a small group of rich countries especially the United States but also Japan Germany and France In an increasingly interdependent world both rich and poor countries have depended on agricultural research conducted in the private and public laboratories of these few countries even if they have not contributed to financing the activity But now the rich country research agendas are shifting In particular they are no longer as interested in simple productivity enhancement Dietary patterns and other priorities change as incomes increase Food security concerns are still pervasive among poor people predominantly in poor countries In rich countries we see a declining emphasis on enhancing the production of staple foods and an increasing emphasis on enhancing certain attributes of food such as growing demand for processed and so called functional foods and on food production systems such as organic farming humane livestock production systems localized food sources and fair trade coffee In addition to growing differences between rich and poor countries in consumer demand for innovation research agendas may diverge because of differences in producer and processor demands Farmers in rich countries are demanding high technology inputs that often are not as relevant for subsistence agriculture such as precision farming technology or other capital intensive methods As well as differences in value adding processes to serve consumer demands differences in farm production technologies are emerging to serve the evolving agribusiness demands for farm products with specific attributes for particular food feed energy medical or industrial applications The purpose of this volume is to document the changing institutions and investments in agricultural R D in less developed countries in part to form a companion volume to Paying for Agricultural Productivity by providing a more complete global picture of the issues

Ending Hunger in Our Lifetime C. Ford Runge,Benjamin Senauer,Philip G. Pardey,Mark W. Rosegrant,2003-07-08 At a time in history when conflict erupts daily in far flung corners of the world ending severe deprivation may be critical to global peace and stability Yet we are far from reaching the goal of reducing hunger by 2025 The authors of this book bring good news hunger can be banished in our lifetime They first distill what is already known about fighting hunger and then report on important new research findings and projections that show it can be done through new and renewed institutions scientific innovation global economics and investment and sustainable environmental practices Although the book encompasses a wide array of ideas arguments facts and figures it is not a dry academic text Anyone wanting a better understanding of poverty and hunger and how to end it will benefit from reading it

Evidence on Key Policies for African Agricultural Growth Xinshen Diao,Adam Kennedy,Frances Cossar,Paul Dorosh,Ousmane Badiane,Olivier Ecker,Hosaena Ghebru Hagos,Derek Headey,Athur Mabiso,Tsitsi Makombe,Mehrab Malek,Emily Schmidt,2013-02-12 It is widely agreed that reducing poverty in Africa south of the Sahara SSA depends largely on stimulating growth in agriculture To this end heads of state in Africa rallied to form the pan African Comprehensive African Agriculture Development Programme CAADP with the goal of raising investments and improving strategy implementation However while implementing an agricultural agenda under the CAADP framework more and more countries have realized that increasing public investment in agriculture alone is not enough Policy can play an important role not only to make public investment more efficient but also is crucial for incentivizing private sector and farmer investment in agriculture Against this backdrop this paper takes stock of current agricultural policies in SSA with a view to identifying policies that are working as well as areas for improvement The paper examines policies to encourage the adoption of agricultural inputs initiate greater private sector investment in agriculture and agro industries and manage price volatility while encouraging openness The paper further reviews successful land tenure policies and property rights systems reviews the evidence on the synergies between agriculture and nutrition and examines how CAADP is laying the institutional architecture for improved policy formulation in Africa In general the paper finds that although substantial progress has been made there is considerable scope for improvement This is not surprising given the relatively primitive and deeply rooted nature of smallholder farming in Africa Evidence synthesized in the paper supports the view that most policies cannot be implemented in isolation Rather policies tend to be most effective when implemented along with complementary policies and public investments

Reasserting the Rural Development Agenda Arsenio Molina Balisacan,2003-08-01 The agricultural sector s perceived importance in the international development circle waned dramatically after the 1980s and investments in rural development and agricultural research and development declined sharply This volume reasserts the role of agricultural and rural development in the economic development debate By revisiting the evolution of ideas paradigms and empirical evidence and by drawing on Asian experiences the book intends to set a reinvigorated agenda on agricultural and rural development both for research and policy discussions in the coming decades Written by internationally acknowledged research scholars this book is helpful to a wide range of audience including researchers policymakers practitioners and students interested in rural development in Asia and its future evolutions

Food Crises and the WTO Baris Karapinar,Christian Häberli,2010-04-08 The food and financial crises of 2008 and 2009 have pushed millions more people into poverty and hunger while changing the parameters of international trade Both crises have also challenged the fundamentals of WTO rules regulating agriculture which had been designed to combat trade distortions due to artificially low priced food commodities This collection of essays examines to what extent the multilateral trading system contributes to food security in today s volatile markets Bringing together a renowned group of expert economists lawyers environmental and development specialists it offers a fresh and multi dimensional perspective combining a strong economic analysis with a comprehensive legal assessment of the interface between food security and international trade regulation Together the contributions provide concrete policy recommendations on how the WTO could play a positive role in preventing or mitigating future food crises and promote global food security

Agricultural Research in Africa Lynam, John,Beintema, Nienke M.,Roseboom, Johannes,Badiane, Ousmane,2016-09-06 This book prepared by Agricultural Science and Technology Indicators ASTI which is led by IFPRI offers a comprehensive perspective on the evolution current status and future goals of agricultural research and development in Africa including analyses of the complex underlying issues and challenges involved as well as insights into how they might be overcome Agriculture in Africa south of the Sahara is at a prospective tipping point Growth has accelerated in the past decade but is unsustainable given increasing use of finite resources The yield gap in African agriculture is significant and scenarios on feeding the world s population into the future highlight the need for Africa to expand its agricultural production Agricultural Research in Africa Investing in Future Harvests discusses the need to shift to a growth path based on increased productivity as in the rest of the developing world which is essential if Africa is to increase rural incomes and compete in both domestic and international markets Such a shift ultimately requires building on evolving improvements that collectively translate to deepening rural innovation capacity

Agricultural Transformation in Nepal Ganesh Thapa,Anjani Kumar,P.K. Joshi,2019-11-25 This book addresses some key strategic questions related to agriculture in the context of major contemporary developments and emerging challenges in Nepal such as the changing role of agriculture with economic growth structural transformation in reducing poverty improving nutritional outcomes and addressing the challenges of climate change The book also suggests policy measures to improve the delivery of critical inputs and services and ensure the participation of marginal and smallholders in high value chains Further it discusses how the new federal system and governance structure will affect the delivery of agricultural technology and services The book is divided into five parts Part I discusses macro issues in the agriculture sector while Part II focuses on agricultural productivity growth and its main drivers. The third part explores diversification in the agricultural and non agricultural sectors by farmers and other rural people for livelihood improvement while the fourth part deals with agricultural trade and marketing issues highlighting policy implications and recommendations in the areas of immediate focus and further research. Lastly Part V addresses institutions and governance issues which are vital for agricultural development. In the final chapter the editors summarize and synthesize the book's main findings and develop a policy agenda for addressing the many challenges faced by the agriculture sector in Nepal so as to make it more productive, competitive, sustainable and inclusive. The book offers a rich source of analytical information on various aspects of agricultural development in Nepal and will be of immense value to policymakers, development partners, civil society, students and those interested in the economic and agricultural development of not only Nepal but also other developing countries.

Development economics between markets and institutions Erwin Bulte, Ruud Ruben, 2023-08-28. This volume in the Mansholt series presents state of the art discussions on a wide variety of topics in the field of agricultural development. More than 20 chapters have been prepared by internationally known scholars and policy analysts providing a concise overview of a variety of recent debates in development economics. While the background of most contributors is in economic science, the chapters are prepared so that they feed into ongoing policy discussions and are accessible to a wide readership. The contributions in this volume are organized around five themes: prospects for rural poverty alleviation, sustainable management of natural resources, strategies for enhancing food security, markets and the role of the state and institutions and governance. It is obvious there are many links between these themes and indeed the integration between them is emphasized in various chapters. This book is prepared as a festschrift or Liber Amicorum for professor Arie Kuyvenhoven. His retirement from the Development Economics Group at Wageningen University, The Netherlands, is a good opportunity to take stock of recent developments in the area of agricultural development economics. Therefore, in addition to being a valuable source of information for readers with an interest in development, this volume is also intended as a farewell gift to Arie from friends and colleagues.

African food systems transformation and the post-Malabo agenda Ulimwengu, John M., Kwofie, Ebenezer M., Collins, Julia, 2023-12-04. This year marks 20 years of implementing the Comprehensive Africa Agriculture Development Programme (CAADP) which was broadened under the 2014 Malabo Declaration on Accelerated Agricultural Growth and Transformation for Shared Prosperity and Improved Livelihoods. The 2023 Annual Trends and Outlook Report generates evidence on the implementation of the CAADP Malabo agenda and thus contributes to the design of the post-Malabo phase of CAADP implementation. The report assesses the current state of Africa's food systems, explores strategic issues related to food systems transformation and reflects on necessary methodologies and approaches to provide a better understanding of key challenges and necessary actions to accelerate transformation.

Handbook of Agricultural Economics Robert E. Evenson, Prabhu Pingali, 2007-06-28. Volume 3 of this series of the Handbooks in Economics follows on from the previous two volumes by focusing on the fundamental concepts of agricultural economics The first part of the volume examines the developments in human resources and technology mastery The second part follows on by considering the processes and impact of invention and innovation in this field The effects of market forces are examined in the third part and the volume concludes by analysing the economics of our changing natural resources including the past effects of climate change Overall this volume forms a comprehensive and accessible survey of the field of agricultural economics and is recommended reading for anyone with an interest either academic or professional in this area Part of the renown Handbooks in Economics series Contributors are leaders of their areas International in scope and comprehensive in coverage Agricultural Biotechnology in the Americas , Environmental Resource Management and the Nexus Approach Hiroshan Hettiarachchi, Reza Ardakanian, 2016-04-08 This book elaborates how water soil and waste may be managed in a nexus and how this approach may help combat global change In addition to providing a brief account on nexus thinking and how it may help us tackle issues important to the world community such as food security the book presents the environmental resource perspective of three main aspects of global change climate change urbanization and population growth Taking as its point of departure the thematic discussions of the Dresden Nexus Conference DNC 2015 held in March 2015 the book presents the perspectives of a number of thought leaders on how the nexus approach could contribute to sustainable environmental resource management The first chapter provides an introduction to the issues and consent of the book Chapters 2 and 3 focus on climate change adaptation Chapters 4 and 5 discuss the role of urbanization as a main driver of global change The last two chapters of the book present ideas on how the nexus approach may be used to cope with population growth and increased demand for resources Energy and protein metabolism and nutrition in sustainable animal production James W. Oltjen, E. Kebreab, Hélène Lapiere, 2013-11-04 As world population increases demand for food and particularly animal products is expected to grow substantially Because of limited area for expansion of animal agriculture and growing consumer concern for the environmental impact of animal production gains in animal efficiency will have to be part of the solution This book addresses key issues of how energy and protein are utilized and interact in farm animals from the molecular to the whole animal and even to the herd or group level of organization It contains state of the art research and reviews on several topics of nutrient utilization and metabolism from top scientists worldwide Key issues addressed include energy protein interactions methodology such as in vitro and in vivo techniques regulation including pre natal programming and endocrine regulation modeling and systems biology including a tribute to the late Professor R Lee Baldwin of the University of California Davis a leader in the field products and health of animals tissue metabolism and environmental sustainability in agriculture This book is a valuable resource for researchers students policy makers producers and industry professionals believing that a better understanding of metabolism and nutrition of farm animals is part of the solution Climate Change and World Food Security Thomas E. Downing, 2013-06-29

In the last half decade since sustainable development became a serious objective what have we achieved Are livelihoods more secure Are nations wealthier and more resilient Is environmental quality being restored or maintained These are essential questions of development Their answers are many varied between communities and regions even between individuals Two years ago in the aftermath of the Earth Summit and ratification of the Framework Convention on Climate Change but before the first Conference of Parties I participated in a panel at the inaugural Oxford Environment Conference on Climate Change and World Food Security The panel vigorously reviewed issues of resilient development and food security This book is a product of the Oxford Environment Conference It takes the essential questions of sustainability as a starting point to focus on present food security and its future prospects in the face of climate change Why is this book important First I believe our goals to end hunger are under threat We know what to do in many respects but fail to generate the finances and political will to change the structures that thrive on poverty Second I believe concern about the environment has become dangerously separated from the fundamental issues of human deprivation Third I believe climate change is a serious threat and I am dismayed at the way nations dither over how to control greenhouse gas emissions and mechanisms to meet the challenge of adverse climate impacts

Climate Change and Adaptation for Food Sustainability Ferdous Ahmed, Abul Quasem Al-Amin, Zeeda Fatimah Mohamad, 2022-01-03 This book assesses the vulnerability impacts of climate change on food security by examining a 50 years scenario 2015 2065 and following a top down approach Importantly looking at the sustainable food production the authors compared the cost benefit of adaptation costs from 2015 to 2065 It was found that a 15% adaptation capacity is more efficient for Malaysia in order to combat the climate change effects on the food sector This book has developed a quantitative adaptive model namely the Malaysian Climate and Economy MCE model based on the dynamic Computable General Equilibrium CGE modeling structure to examine food sustainability and adaptation strategies Malaysia experiences an unusual combination of droughts and extreme rainfall events that can be attributed to climate change These unusual events and consequences leave Malaysian policymakers looking for ways to make Malaysia self sufficient in terms of agriculture It is assumed that climate change effects may result in increasing food insecurity and vulnerability in the future Policy measures are in place to lessen the likely climatic effects overall but there is an urgent need to develop an adaptation policy for the future

Information and communication technologies for development and poverty reduction Maximo Torero, Joachim von Braun, 2006-01-01 The IT revolution made some glorious promises to the world's poor instant access to information and far flung markets political empowerment greater growth even the possibility that countries could leapfrog entire stages of development But when none of that happened in a hurry the hoopla gave way to concern that rather than closing the wealth gap IT was exacerbating it Yet for all the international debate and millions of words written about the digital divide very little systematic empirical research or studies over time have been done to confirm claims and counterclaims and to guide policymakers on how this technology actually affects the development of low income countries In this volume Maximo Torero and Joachim von Braun seek to address this omission with a collection of case studies exploring the relationship between information and communication technologies ICTs and development in Bangladesh China India Ghana Laos Peru and East Africa Their conclusion is that yes ICTs do have potential to serve and empower the poor by linking them to commercial and social networks cutting transaction costs and making the delivery of public goods like education and healthcare more efficient But these benefits can accrue only when the supporting infrastructure is in place and when ICT policies take into account not only questions of connectivity but also of capability how to help poor people use the new tools and of content what is relevant and in what form All three c s are critical Without coherent strategies and the right regulatory policies there is the very real likelihood that scarce resources will be misallocated and that ICT induced growth will remain elusive Contributors Abdul Bayes Arjun Bedi Romeo Bertolini Shyamal K Chowdhury Virgilio Galdo K Lal Francis A S T Matambalya Maja Micevska Dietrich Mueller Falcke Gi Soon Song Maximo Torero Joachim von Braun Wensheng Wang and Susanna Wolfe Gi Soon Song Maximo Torero Joachim von Braun Wensheng Wang Susanna Wolf
