Industry-Research in Aircraft Finance Joachim Ehrental,2010-03-23 Aircraft values are key to aircraft financing decisions Aircraft values act as a source of security for providers of debt capital and lessors failing to re place aircraft and as a source of upside potential to equity investors Yet aircraft values cannot be precisely and continuously monitored This is because neither actual primary nor secondary aircraft transaction prices are disclosed Various types of third party valuation estimates exist but relying solely on third party appraisals seems insufficient considering the volumes and durations of aircraft financing arrangements The author thus proposes an aviation industry research framework to opine on aircraft values The framework is based on extensive research on the role of aircraft values in various current financing techniques and the dynamics of aircraft values It suggests a combination of aircraft analysis airline analysis and behavioral analysis to complement third party appraisals The book is designed as a resource for students in business administration and economics and offers a scientific perspective on aircraft values for financial analysts aviation consultants and airline financial managers http://www.alexandria.unisg.ch/Personen/Joachim_Ehrental/ L en body
