

f) New species arise as a result of:

- isolation – two populations of a species become separated, eg geographically
- genetic variation – each population has a wide range of alleles that control their characteristics
- natural selection – in each population, the alleles that control the characteristics which help the organism to survive are selected
- speciation – the populations become so different that successful interbreeding is no longer possible.

Additional guidance:

HT only

For Foundation Tier, ideas are restricted to knowledge and understanding of isolation.
