s impassioned I Have a Dream speech or with Elvis Presley's throbbing I'm All Shook Up In Margot Henriksen's vivid depiction of the decades after World War II all three are expressions of a cultural revolution directly related to the atomic bomb Although many scientists and other Americans protested the pursuit of nuclear superiority after World War II ended they were drowned out by Cold War rhetoric that encouraged a culture of consensus Nonetheless Henriksen says a culture of dissent arose and she traces this rebellion through all forms of popular culture At first artists expressed their anger anxiety and despair in familiar terms that addressed nuclear reality only indirectly But Henriksen focuses primarily on new modes of expression that emerged discussing the disturbing themes of film noir with extended attention to Alfred Hitchcock and science fiction films Beat poetry rock n roll and Pop Art Black humor became a primary weapon in the cultural revolution while literature movies and music gave free rein to every possible expression of the generation gap Cultural upheavals from flower power to the civil rights movement accentuated the failure of old values Filled with fascinating examples of cultural responses to the Atomic Age Henriksen's book is a must read for anyone interested in the United States at mid twentieth century Did America really learn to stop worrying and love the bomb as the title of Stanley Kubrick's 1964 film Dr Strangelove would have us believe Does that darkly satirical comedy have anything in common with Martin Luther King Jr's impassioned Keep Watching the Skies! The Cinematic Legacy of Frank Sinatra David Wills, 2025-06-25 In a film career spanning more than five decades Frank Sinatra proved to be a roulette wheel of constantly spinning talent the likes of which Hollywood has rarely seen Film history is filled with stars created by the studio system Occasionally however a performer emerged who against all preconceived odds of what a star should be or look like knocked down the walls of convention by becoming nothing other than what they already were Frank Sinatra was the embodiment of this fundamental truth The legacy of his work stands apart from many of his contemporaries who essentially based their performances on an extension of a core character type Sinatra however was able to take his signature persona and translate it successfully into many film genres first as the comedic song and dance man then as the dramatic actor and romantic lead and finally as the tough guy and action hero Sinatra also respectfully challenged contemporary ideals of acting technique While being humble enough to learn from his peers he kept his acting style fresh and instinctual and earned an Oscar at a time when many actors were either classically trained or coached in the Method In The Cinematic Legacy of Frank Sinatra author David Wills presents a stunning collection highlighting the work of one of Hollywood's greatest stars in roles as varied as those in the classics Anchors Aweigh From Here to Eternity Suddenly Guys and Dolls The Man With the Golden Arm Ocean's 11 The Manchurian Candidate Von Ryan's Express and The Detective Pairing more than two hundred first generation photos with reflections on Sinatra from costars and work associates and including contributing essays by his children Nancy Sinatra Tina Sinatra and Frank Sinatra Jr it is an unforgettable showcase of the actor's transformation from world famous singer to movie star to Academy Award winner and finally to one of the most enduring icons in cinema history

From Fu Manchu to Kung Fu Panda Naomi Greene, 2014-03-31 Throughout the twentieth century American filmmakers have embraced cinematic representations of China Beginning with D W Griffith s silent classic Broken Blossoms 1919 and ending with the computer animated Kung Fu Panda 2008 this book explores China s changing role in the American imagination Taking viewers into zones that frequently resist logical expression or more orthodox historical investigation the films suggest the welter of intense and conflicting impulses that have surrounded China They make clear that China has often served as the very embodiment of otherness a kind of yardstick or cloudy mirror of America itself It is a mirror that reflects not only how Americans see the racial other but also a larger landscape of racial sexual and political perceptions that touch on the ways in which the nation envisions itself and its role in the world In the United States the exceptional emotional charge that imbues images of China has tended to swing violently from positive to negative and back again China has been loved and as is generally the case today feared Using film to trace these dramatic fluctuations author Naomi Greene relates them to the larger arc of historical and political change Suggesting that filmic images both reflect and fuel broader social and cultural impulses she argues that they reveal a constant tension or dialectic between the self and the other Significantly with the important exception of films made by Chinese or Chinese American directors the Chinese other is almost invariably portrayed in terms of the American self Placed in a broader context this ethnocentrism is related both to an ever present sense of American exceptionalism and to a Manichean world view that perceives other countries as friends or enemies Greene analyzes a series of influential films including classics like Shanghai Express 1932 The Bitter Tea of General Yen 1933 The Good Earth 1936 and Shanghai Gesture 1941 important cold war films such as The Manchurian Candidate 1962 and The Sand Pebbles 1966 and a range of contemporary films including Chan is Missing 1982 The Wedding Banquet 1993 Kundun 1997 Mulan 1998 and Shanghai Noon 2000 Her consideration makes clear that while many stereotypes and racist images of the past have been largely banished from the screen the political cultural and social impulses they embodied are still alive and well democracy Consequently this book serves as a contribution to the growing body of research on political cinema and the way it simultaneously reflects and shapes political life through its role as a sociocultural phenomenon In doing so it invites readers to further delve into the exploration of these films which represent complex commentaries on the structures of corporations media and the military that are predominant in contemporary American society and cinema Books Into Film Robin H. Smiley, 2003 From the beginning the movie industry has looked to literature for source material Many of the Twentieth century s finest writers were brought to the movie making centers especially Hollywood to adapt their own books into screenplays More often another writer or writers would be given the assignment of turning a book into a workable film script Sometimes the result was a creative leap that expanded and illuminated the original work Frequently it wasn t In the 60 plus essays collected in Books into Film Robin H Smiley explores the creative process that puts words together into a book then translates those words into speech and image and action on film Drawing upon his experience as a writer and screenwriter and a lifelong student and fan of the movies the author thoughtfully considers a wide range of books from high comedy to darkest noir from science fiction to melodrama and the films made from them Book jacket
