Between The Lines Literary Transnationalism And African American Poetics Imagining The Americas:

Between the Lines Monique-Adelle Callahan, 2011 This work examines the role of women poets of African descent in shaping the history of the Americas Focusing on three women whose poetry wrestled with the sociopolitical predicaments of the late 19th century the book ventures a broader definition of African American literature by placing it in a hemispheric context

Between the Lines Monique-Adelle Callahan, 2011-04-22 Between the Lines examines the role of three women poets of African descent Frances Harper Cristina Ayala and Auta de Souza in shaping the literary history of the Americas Despite their different geographic locations each shared common concerns and wrestled in their works with the sociopolitical predicaments of the late nineteenth century Their verse vigorously examined slavery and confronted the existential struggle against boundaries imposed by race nation and gender The writers each conceived of the poem as a dynamic forum where new concepts of individual and collective freedoms could be imagined In their work readers encounter the poem as a site of cross cultural exchange a literary space in which the boundaries of nation can be redefined Between the Lines places national poetics in a global economy of identities histories and languages It looks to poetry to demonstrate how people translate from one cultural or linguistic arena to another how literary expression writes identities and how language is used to conceptualize history The book is the first to juxtapose Cuba Brazil and the United States in a study of nineteenth century women s poetry and the first to include the Lusophone literary tradition in a comparative study of African descendants in Latin America the U S and the Caribbean With close readings and expertly rendered translations Monique Adelle Callahan situates the work of these three poets in a hemispheric context that opens up their writing to new interpretations and expands the definition of African American literature

Johnson, 2012-07-11 Drawing insight from W E B Du Bois Frederick Douglass and Toni Morrison Terrence L Johnson recasts the debate on the proper role of religion in politics as one about liberalism's failure to address the moral issues implicated in human suffering subjugation and death as they emerge within political responses to antiblack racism imperialism and sexism Black Women's Literature of the Americas Tonia Leigh Wind, 2021-11-25 Drawing on a range of historical and literary texts this book examines how Black women under the yoke of slavery negotiated their sense of belonging and spirituality from a liminal position stuck between a new life in the Americas and their connections to their African ancestral roots and a wider diasporic community The book investigates how Black women in the Spanish speaking Caribbean the United States and Brazil turned to their spiritual beliefs as a tool of resilience and resistance These griots and goddesses are forced to negotiate complex issues such as race gender identity maternity sexuality and belonging from a liminal position that looks to both settle roots in a foreign land and stay connected to ancestors and the Sacred As these Black female protagonists turn to re memory and ancestral knowledge to map their connection with the Divine they become mediators of worlds and hybrid griots surpassing temporal and geographical boundaries With important reflections on Toni Morrison's Beloved Dahlma Llanos Figueroa's Daughters of the Stone and Ana Maria Gon alves's Um Defeito de Cor amongst other texts this book will be of interest to advanced students and researchers of comparative literature religious studies gender studies and African diaspora studies The Practice of Citizenship Derrick R. Spires, 2019-03-08 In the years between the American Revolution and the U S Civil War as legal and cultural understandings of citizenship became more racially restrictive black writers articulated an expansive practice based theory of citizenship Grounded in political participation mutual aid critique and revolution and the myriad daily interactions between people living in the same spaces citizenship they argued is not defined by who one is but rather by what one does In The Practice of Citizenship Derrick R Spires examines the parallel development of early black print culture and legal and cultural understandings of U S citizenship beginning in 1787 with the framing of the federal Constitution and the founding of the Free African Society by Absalom Jones and Richard Allen and ending in 1861 with the onset of the Civil War Between these two points he recovers understudied figures such as William J Wilson whose 1859 Afric American Picture Gallery appeared in seven installments in The Anglo African Magazine and the physician abolitionist and essayist James McCune Smith He places texts such as the proceedings of black state conventions alongside considerations of canonical figures such as Frances Ellen Watkins Harper and Frederick Douglass Reading black print culture as a space where citizenship was both theorized and practiced Spires reveals the degree to which concepts of black citizenship emerged through a highly creative and diverse community of letters not easily reducible to representative figures or genres From petitions to Congress to Frances Harper's parlor fiction black writers framed citizenship both explicitly and implicitly the book demonstrates not simply as a response to white supremacy but as a matter of course in the shaping of their own communities and in meeting their own political
