existing international hierarchies took place as new countries from the so called developing world began to emerge as crucial actors capable of questioning and altering the power dynamics of the world. It is therefore unthinkable to ignore emerging countries such as Russia, the People's Republic of China, India, Brazil or South Africa in the decision making process in today's world order. In addition, there is a group of smaller yet increasingly important countries that while acknowledging their inability radically to change the rules of the international system are still eager to shift power relations and enhance their influence in the world. Argentina, Colombia, Egypt, Indonesia, Iran, South Korea, Mexico, Nigeria, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Turkey and Vietnam are generally recognised as part of this grouping of emerging powers from the Global South. While there is a consensus amongst academics that emerging powers from the Global South must have a stabilising role within their own regions, previous analyses have focused primarily on the impact that emerging powers have had in their own regions, conflict resolution initiatives. This volume instead aims to go beyond these analyses and provide new insights regarding the effect that this stabilising role has on the continental and global positioning of emerging powers. In other words, this book explores the relation between a country's involvement in conflict resolution initiatives and its positioning in the international system. The volume will contribute to this approach using the perspective of academics and practitioners from countries of the Global South, particularly from states that have strengthened or sometimes weakened their position in the international hierarchy of power through a leading role in regional conflict resolution initiatives.

Paraguay report on deforestation 2000-2024
Elverdin, Pablo, Illescas, Nelson, 2025-09-15. The definition of forest varies between countries and while the differences may be marked by small subtleties, this can imply important divergences in what is understood by deforestation and/or forest degradation. A first approximation to the definition of forests in Paraguay arises from Art 5 of Law 2524/04 on zero deforestation in the Eastern Region. 1. There, native forest is defined as any native or autochthonous ecosystem, whether or not intervened, regenerated by natural succession or other forestry techniques, which occupies a minimum area of two hectares, characterized by the presence of mature trees of different ages, species and varied size, with one or more canopies that cover more than 50% (fifty percent) of that area and where there are more than sixty trees per hectare of fifteen or more centimeters in diameter measured at breast height.

Intangible Cultural Heritage, Sustainable Development and Intellectual Property
Benedetta Ubertaini, 2022-08-04. This book critically analyses the relationships between intangible cultural heritage (ICH), sustainable development and intellectual property rights (IPRs). The author argues that although the use of IPRs to safeguard ICH presents challenges and has impeded sustainable development in some cases, the adoption of these rights on ICH also presents opportunities and fundamentally is not contrary to the spirit of the UNESCO Convention for the Safeguarding of the Intangible Cultural Heritage (UNESCO 2003 Convention). The adoption of IPRs on ICH can form an important part of the development of sustainable safeguarding plans capable of benefitting the communities, groups and individuals (CGIs) that create, maintain and transmit such heritage. The book provides a nuanced analysis of the relationship between intellectual property IP law and ICH as well as examining the role of IPRs in safeguarding ICH through the lens of sustainable development It analyses the relationship between IP law and ICH from environmental social and economic perspectives These perspectives allow a thorough evaluation of both the positive effects and potential pitfalls of adopting IPRs to safeguard ICH The book addresses deeper structural matters that refer back to the safeguarding of social and environmental processes underlying ICH Survey of Economic and Social Developments in the Arab Region United Nations Publications, 2016-04-25 In addition to conflicts and related security disruptions in the Arab region a significant fall in oil prices and their uncertain prospects have become a predominant economic concern with prices plunging by more than 50 per cent in the second half of 2014 Nevertheless member countries of the Gulf Cooperation Council GCC have continued to lead growth in the Arab region This edition of the Survey of Economic and Social Developments in the Arab Region looks at the continued expansion of the non oil sector as it maintains GCC economic growth Lower oil prices have not yet negatively affected the GCC economically although confidence has dropped with weakening stock markets and real estate transactions Furthermore lower oil prices have benefited oil importing Arab countries by easing their balance of payment and fiscal constraints With conflict and violence in the region one of the main channels for economic stabilization has been intraregional flows of capital and remittances from the GCC countries
