

A person in a blue wetsuit is diving into clear blue water. The diver is upside down, with their head near the bottom of the frame and their arms extended. The water is a vibrant blue, and several jellyfish are visible in the lower half of the image. The title "Three Views of Crystal Water" is written in a white, cursive font across the middle of the image.

Delgado,2025-07 In The Great Museum of the Sea archaeologist museum director television host journalist and award winning author James Delgado takes the reader on a personal tour of the world of shipwrecks including many of the more than one hundred lost ships he has personally discovered investigated excavated and shared in print and on screen In these pages Delgado explains why people care about shipwrecks and why we have incorporated the concept of a shipwreck and shipwrecks themselves into our religions and cultures since the earliest civilizations

Sailor Girl Sheree-Lee Olson,2014-05-14 Sailor Girl is both coming of age tale and love poem to the natural world Set on the cargo boats of Canada s Great Lakes in the summer of 1981 it follows the literal and figurative journey of Kate McLeod a rebellious photography student looking to earn money for school Using tight salty dialogue and gripping description the book renders a sharp edged portrait of life literally lived on the edges of society It is also a love story in which a middle class girl finds a deep connection with the unruly young men and toughminded women of the lakes Life on the water is both brutally physical and socially restrictive and Kate kicks against the rules both written and unwritten A female riff on such classics as Two Years Before the Mast and Malcolm Lowry s

Ultramarine Sailor Girl is also a uniquely Canadian story one that distills a vanishing part of our heritage
