Through the Year With Thomas Merton Thomas P. McDonnell, 1985-09-04 A meditation a day from Thomas Merton This convenient day book is a compendium of inspiring passages from the writings of one of this century's spiritual giants It offers daily challenges for thoughtful meditation intended to stimulate provoke and lead to grace Here are some enduring thoughts found in these pages We cannot be happy if we expect to live all the time at the highest peak of intensity Happiness is not a matter of intensity but of balance and order and rhythm and harmony Every moment and every event of every man's life on earth plants something in his soul Nothing is more suspicious in a man who seems holy than an impatient desire to reform other men Pay as little attention as you can to the faults of other people and none at all to their natural defects and eccentricities The wise heart lives in Christ Wisdom manifests itself and yet is hidden The more it hides the more it is manifest and the more it is manifest the more it is hidden For God is known where he is apprehended as unknown and he is heard when we realize that we do not know the sound of his voice God utters me like a word containing a partial thought of himself Our full spiritual life is life in wisdom life in Christ The darkness of faith bears fruit in the light of wisdom Love cannot come of emptiness It is full of reality

Justice, Mercy, and Well-Being Peter G. Bolt, James R. Harrison, 2020-03-10 This collection of essays examines how God's justice and mercy intersect in the lives of individuals and their communities with a view to the establishment of personal and social well being in the world The authors drawn from England and Australia approach the theme from a variety of methodological and interdisciplinary perspectives Theological exegetical historical healthcare moral and visual arts approaches are brought to bear in an investigation relevant for the identity and mission of the church in a world characterized by cycles of revenge the perpetration of injustice and the marginalization and persecution of various ethnic groups The practical outcome of these studies has wide ranging relevance for our attitudes toward indigenous peoples the well being of single and married people healthcare throughout the ages the spiritual care of people including those suffering dementia the personal experience of trauma issues of moral judgement and the abiding value of the creative arts

A Faithful Public-Prophetic Witness Barry K. Morris, 2020-03-20 This book hails from decades of challenging trial and error work abundant reading and an enduring obligation to ministers activists and unsung lay heroes whose legacies matter As there is little that actually addresses the elusive meanings if not the dangers inherent in pursuing alleged spoils of success it is kairos time Seemingly scarce resources and competition to make and maintain ministries in the city challenge those of us in the field or on the sidelines to speak write and communicate clearly and convincingly not only for ourselves and our people past and present but for those who come along soon to receive the baton or wear the mantle. Concretely narrated with unique case studies, a cast of dozens contribute their earthy, earnest testimonies and are at long last energetically affirmed. Specifically, this work proffers constructive attention to the critical cautions concerning subtle temptations to succeed, including commodification, cooptation, communalism, clientelism, and cowardice, and not bailing on fierce charity, justice, tensions with benevolence, protectively dominant Narrative, analysis, and biography, as theology, social ethics, biblical theology, and recent church history give apt attention to how a compelling case is possible for success if justice is practiced, given a hopeful realism and perspective of prophetic eschatology.

What the River Carries Lisa Knopp, 2012-05-18

In this informed and lyrical collection of interwoven essays, Lisa Knopp explores the physical and cultural geography of the Mississippi, Missouri, and Platte rivers she has come to understand and cherish. At the same time, she contemplates how people experience landscape, identifying three primary roles of environmental perception: the insider, the outsider, and the outsider seeking to become an insider. Viewing the waterways through these approaches, she searches for knowledge and meaning. Because Knopp was born and raised just a few blocks away, she considers the Mississippi from the perspective of a native resident, a dweller in the land. She revisits places she has long known: Nauvoo, Illinois, the site of two nineteenth-century utopias, one Mormon, one Icarian; Muscatine, Iowa, once the world's largest manufacturer of pearl mussel shell buttons; and the mysterious prehistoric bird and bear-shaped effigy mounds of northeastern Iowa. On a downriver trip between the Twin Cities and St. Louis, she meditates on what can be found in Mississippi river water: state lines dissolved, oxygen, smallmouth bass corpses, family history, wrecked steamboats, mayfly nymphs, toxic perfluorinated chemicals, philosophies. Knopp first encountered the Missouri as a tourist and became acquainted with it through literary and historical documents as well as stories told by longtime residents. Her journey includes stops at Fort Bellefontaine, where Lewis and Clark first slept on their sojourn to the Pacific; Little Dixie, Missouri's slaveholding hemp-growing region as revealed through the life of Jesse James's mother; Fort Randall Dam and Lake Francis Case, the construction of which destroyed White Swan on the Yankton Sioux Reservation; and places that produced unique musical responses to the river, including Native American courting flutes, indie rock, Missouri River valley fiddling, Prohibition-era jazz jam sessions, and German folk music. Knopp's relationship with the Platte is marked by intentionality: she settled nearby and chose to develop deep and lasting connections over twenty years of residence. On this adventure, she ponders the half-million sandhill cranes that pass through Nebraska each spring, the ancient varieties of Pawnee corn growing at the Great Platte River Road Archway Monument, a never-broken tract of tallgrass prairie, the sugar beet industry, and the changes in the river brought about by the demands of irrigation. In the final essay, Knopp undertakes the science of river meanders: consecutive loops of water moving in opposite directions, which form around obstacles but also develop in the absence of them. What initiates the turning that results in a meander remains a mystery. Such is the subtle and interior process of knowing and loving a place What the River Carries asks readers to consider their own relationships with landscape and how one can most meaningfully and responsibly dwell on the earth's surface Running—The Sacred Art Dr. Warren A. Morris, 2016-05-20 What pray tell does a faithful urban ministry require if not a triadic relationship of prayer justice and hope Could such a theologically conjunctive relationship of prayer justice and hope fortify urban ministry and challenge students and practitioners to ponder and practice beyond the box Frequently justice is collapsed to charity hope into wishful thinking or temporarily arrested despair and prayer a grasp at quick fix interventions An urban ministry's steadfast public and prophetic witness longs for the depth and width of this triad Via three countries decades of endeavors one chapter brainstorms urban ministry practices while another's literature survey signals crucial convictions Amid many seminal theologians are summoned to ground urban ministry intimations and implications Niebuhr on justice Moltmann on hope and Merton on contemplative prayer Evident is passion that fuels compassion in the service of justice hope that engages despair and prayer that draws from the contemplative center of it all thankful resources for long haul ministry The triad presses to
