The State of Post-Cinema Malte Hagener, Vinzenz Hediger, Alena Strohmaier, 2016-11-30 This book approaches the topic of the state of post cinema from a new direction The authors explore how film has left the cinema as a fixed site and institution and now appears ubiquitous in the museum and on the street on planes and cars and new digital communication platforms of various kinds The authors investigate how film has become more than cinema no longer a medium that is based on the photochemical recording and replay of movement Most often the state of post cinema is conceptualized from the high end of the most advanced technology discussions focus on performance capture and digital 3D 4K projection and industrial light magic Here the authors approach is focused on the low end circulation of filmic images This includes informal networks of exchange and transaction such as p2p networks video platforms and so called piracy with a special focus on the Middle East and North Africa where political and social transformations make new forms of circulation and presentation particularly visible

Multiplayer John Brewer, 2011-12-21 Is dying the worst thing that can happen to you Hector West thinks so especially after the death of his father in Iraq So Hector escapes into the online world of Omega Wars where he knows the worst that can happen to his character is an inconvenient respawn After all real is real and virtual isn't Yet Hector's real and virtual worlds are heading for a deadly collision as the war that took his father crashes headlong into his quiet suburban life And getting killed Hector is about to find out isn't the worst thing that can happen to you It isn't even close

Yachting, 2007-09 Doing Recent History Claire Bond Potter, Renee C. Romano, 2012-04-25 Recent history the very phrase seems like an oxymoron Yet historians have been writing accounts of the recent past since printed history acquired a modern audience and in the last several years interest in recent topics has grown exponentially With subjects as diverse as Walmart and disco and personalities as disparate as Chavez and Schlafly books about the history of our own time have become arguably the most exciting and talked about part of the discipline Despite this rich tradition and growing popularity historians have engaged in little discussion about the specific methodological political and ethical issues related to writing about the recent past The twelve essays in this collection explore the challenges of writing histories of recent events where visibility is inherently imperfect hindsight and perspective are lacking and historiography is underdeveloped Those who write about events that have taken place since 1970 encounter exciting challenges that are both familiar and foreign to scholars of a more distant past including suspicions that their research is not historical enough negotiation with living witnesses who have a very strong stake in their own representation and the task of working with new electronic sources Contributors to this collection consider a wide range of these challenges They question how sources like television and video games can be better utilized in historical research explore the role and regulation of doing oral histories consider the ethics of writing about living subjects discuss how historians can best navigate questions of privacy and copyright law and imagine the possibilities that new technologies offer for creating transnational and translingual research opportunities

Doing Recent History offers guidance and insight to any researcher considering tackling the not so distant past

Fatal Grievances Gregory M. Vecchi, Mary Ann Markey, Jeffrey A. Daniels, 2022-12-30 Active killer attacks frequently dominate the headlines with stories of seemingly random mass killings in school campus and workplace settings Nearly all of the attacks are over before the police can respond leaving unanswered questions as to why these attacks happen and what can be done to prevent them Fatal Grievances Forecasting and Preventing Active Killer Threats in School Campus and Workplace Settings takes a proactive view of active killer threat management and resolution to prevent the attack before it occurs Drawing from established threat assessment behavioral analysis and law enforcement negotiation theory and practice the book presents models and methods designed to forecast and prevent an active killer attack through the process of identification assessment and engagement This approach begins with definitions and orientations to violence the importance of the primacy of focusing on direct behaviors of planned lethal violence over other more indirect behaviors understanding how to identify a fatal grievance and that only fatal grievances result in planned lethal violence the importance of understanding the process of crisis intervention as the key to eliminating the fatal grievance and the motivation to kill and the use of time series predictive behavioral threat forecasting methods to prevent an active killer attack Case studies from within the United States US and abroad support this unique approach to threat assessment and make the concepts and principles accessible to professionals working in the fields of education human resources and security
