Suicidal Narrative in Modern Japan Alan Stephen Wolfe,2014-07-14 Dazai Osamu 1909 1948 is one of Japan s most famous literary suicides known as the earliest postwar manifestation of the genuinely alienated writer in Japan In this first deconstructive reading of a modern Japanese novelist Alan Wolfe draws on contemporary Western literary and cultural theories and on a knowledge of Dazai s work in the context of Japanese literary history to provide a fresh view of major texts by this important literary figure

In the process Wolfe revises Japanese as well as Western scholarship on Dazai and discovers new connections among suicide autobiography alienation and modernization As shown here Dazai s writings resist narrative and historical closure while he may be said to serve the Japanese literary establishment as both romantic decadent and representative scapegoat his texts reveal a deconstructive edge through which his posthumous status as a monument of negativity is already perceived and undone Wolfe maintains that cultural modernization pits a Western concept of the individual as realized self and coherent subject against an Eastern absent self and that a felt need to overcome this tension inspires the autobiographical fiction so prevalent in Japanese novels Suicidal Narrative in Modern Japan shows that Dazai s texts also resist readings that would resolve the gaps East West self other modern premodern still prevalent in Japanese intellectual life Originally published in 1990 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
