Artifacts Of Loss Crafting Survival In Japanese American Concentration Camps:

Artifacts of Loss Jane Elizabeth Dusselier, 2008 From 1942 to 1946 as America prepared for war 120 000 people of Japanese descent were forcibly interned in harsh desert camps across the American west In Artifacts of Loss Jane E Dusselier looks at the lives of these internees through the lens of their art These camp made creations included flowers made with tissue paper and shells wood carvings of pets left behind furniture made from discarded apple crates gardens grown next to their housing anything to help alleviate the visual deprivation and isolation caused by their circumstances Their crafts were also central in sustaining re forming and inspiring new relationships Creating exhibiting consuming living with and thinking about art became embedded in the everyday patterns of camp life and helped provide internees with sustenance for mental emotional and psychic survival Dusselier urges her readers to consider these often overlooked folk crafts as meaningful political statements which are significant as material forms of protest and as representations of loss She concludes briefly with a discussion of other displaced people around the globe today and the ways in which personal and group identity is reflected in similar creative ways

A Materiality of Internment Gilly Carr, 2024-08-07 More than two thousand people from the British Channel Islands were deported to and interned in Germany during the Second World War making up as many as 60% of all interned British citizens in occupied territory during this period This book carries out an in depth analysis of artwork objects oral testimonies archives poetry letters diaries and memoirs gathered from the internees and drawing from around one hundred collections The work is based on over 15 years of research and interviews with more than 65 former internees and explores analytical themes and narratives of placemaking resistance communities food and cooking It also proposes new concepts and categories to help us understand objects that distinguish the experience of internment This book will be of great value for scholars and museum professionals as well as postgraduate students in the field of Conflict Archaeology and scholars of the Second World War Cumulatively this materiality comprises one of the major surviving assemblages of internees to emerge from the war comparable in size quality and importance with that from other theatres of war

Prisoners of War Harold Mytum, Gilly Carr, 2012-09-14 The archaeology of war has revealed evidence of bravery sacrifice heroism cowardice and atrocities Mostly absent from these narratives of victory and defeat however are the experiences of prisoners of war despite what these can teach us about cruelty ingenuity and human adaptability The international array of case studies in Prisoners of War restores this hidden past through case studies of PoW camps of the Napoleonic era the American Civil War and both World Wars These bring to light wide variations in historical and cultural details excavation and investigative methods used items found and their interpretation and their contributions to archaeology history and heritage Illustrated with diagrams period photographs and historical quotations these chapters vividly reveal challenges and opportunities for researchers and heritage managers and revisit powerful ethical questions that persist to this day Notorious and lesser known aspects of PoW experiences that are addressed include Designing and operating an 18th century British PoW camp Life and death at Confederate and Union American Civil War PoW camps The role of possessions in coping strategies during World War I The archaeology of the Great Escape Experiencing and negotiating space at civilian internment camps in Germany and Allied PoW camps in Normandy in World War II The role of archaeology in the memorial process in America Norway Germany and France Graffiti decorative ponds illicit sak drinking and family life at Japanese American camps As one of the first book length examinations of this fascinating multidisciplinary topic Prisoners of War merits serious attention from historians social justice researchers and activists archaeologists and anthropologists

Elusive Archives Martin Brückner, Sandy Isenstadt, 2021-08-27 The essays that comprise Elusive Archives raise a common question how do we study material culture when the objects of study are transient evanescent dispersed or subjective Such things resist the taxonomic protocols that institutions such as museums and archives rely on to channel their acquisitions into meaningful collections What holds these disparate things together here are the questions authors ask of them Each essay creates by means of its method a provisional collection of things an elusive archive Scattered matter then becomes fixed within each author s analytical framework rather than within the walls of an archive s reading room or in cases along a museum corridor This book follows the ways in which objects may be identified gathered arranged conceptualized and even displayed rather than by discovering artifacts in an archive and then asking how they came to be there The authors approach material culture outside the traditional bounds of learning about the past Their essays are varied not only in subject matter but also in narrative format and conceptual reach making the volume accessible and easy to navigate for a quick reference or if read straight through build toward a new way to think about material culture Cultural Heritage and Prisoners of War

Gilly Carr, Harold Mytum, 2012-04-27 This book focuses on the numerous examples of creativity produced by POWs and civilian internees during their captivity including paintings cartoons craftwork needlework acting musical compositions magazine and newspaper articles wood carving and recycled Red Cross tins turned into plates mugs and makeshift stoves all which have previously received little attention The authors of this volume show the wide potential of such items to inform us about the daily life and struggle for survival behind barbed wire Previously dismissed as items which could only serve to illustrate POW memoirs and diaries this book argues for a central role of all items of creativity in helping us to understand the true experience of life in captivity The international authors draw upon a rich seam of material from their own case studies of POW and civilian internment camps across the world to offer a range of interpretations of this diverse and extraordinary material Occupying Space in American Literature and Culture Ana Manzananas, Jesús Benito

Sanchez, 2014-04-24 Occupying Space in American Literature and Culture inscribes itself within the spatial turn that permeates the ways we look at literary and cultural productions The volume seeks to clarify the connections between race space class and identity as it concentrates on different occupations and disoccupations enclosures and boundaries Space is scaled up and down from the body the ground zero of spatiality to the texturology of Manhattan from the striated place of the office in Melville's Bartleby the Scrivener on Wall Street to the striated spaces of internment camps and reservations from the lowest of the low the human clutter that lined the streets of Albany NY during the Depression to the new Towers of Babel that punctuate the contemporary architecture of transparencies As it strings together these spatial narratives the volume reveals how beyond the boundaries that characterize each space every location has loose ends that are impossible to contain
