

An aerial photograph of a battlefield, likely during the Battle of Arnhem in 1944. The foreground shows soldiers in olive drab uniforms and helmets, some crouching or lying on the ground. The middle ground is a dark, muddy area with some structures and debris. The background shows a flat landscape under a cloudy sky. The title 'ARNHEM 1944' is superimposed in large, white, blocky letters with a distressed texture. Below it, 'THE AIRBORNE BATTLE' is written in smaller, red, blocky letters. At the bottom, the author's name 'MARTIN MIDDLEBROOK' is written in white, serif letters.

Arnhem 1944 The Airborne Battle 17 26 September Penguin History:

Arnhem 1944 Martin Middlebrook, 2019-03-13 Arnhem it was the last major battle lost by the British Army lost not by the men who fought there but by the overconfidence of generals faulty planning and the failure of a relieving force given too great a task If the operation of which Arnhem formed a part had been successful the outcome of the war and the history of post war Europe would have been greatly altered Yet is it worth another book I had fulfilled all my literary ambitions by researching and writing thirteen full length books and was ready to retire from that laborious craft when Peter van Gorsel head of Penguin's Dutch office asked me to write a book on Arnhem for the fiftieth anniversary in 1994 It was the first time that my publishers had requested a book all previous subjects had been my choice I eventually agreed for several reasons I had not previously researched and written about the British Army in the Second World War and had not previously done any work in Holland so two fresh fields were opened up to me I also felt that the fighting in and around Arnhem had still not been described in the detail that it merited

Confronting Captivity Arieh J. Kochavi, 2011-01-20 How was it possible that almost all of the nearly 300 000 British and American troops who fell into German hands during World War II survived captivity in German POW camps and returned home almost as soon as the war ended In Confronting Captivity Arieh J Kochavi offers a behind the scenes look at the living conditions in Nazi camps and traces the actions the British and American governments took and didn't take to ensure the safety of their captured soldiers Concern in London and Washington about the safety of these POWs was mitigated by the recognition that the Nazi leadership tended to adhere to the Geneva Convention when it came to British and U S prisoners Following the invasion of Normandy however Allied apprehension over the safety of POWs turned into anxiety for their very lives Yet Britain and the United States took the calculated risk of counting on a swift conclusion to the war as the Soviets approached Germany from the east Ultimately Kochavi argues it was more likely that the lives of British and American POWs were spared because of their race rather than any actions their governments took on their behalf

Warfare in Woods and Forests Anthony Clayton, 2011-12-07 Fighting in woods and forests is a very special form of war Avoided by military commanders unless such terrain is to their advantage for soldiers forest battles are a chaotic mix of dread determination and all too often death Adversaries remain in constant fear of concealed ambush casualties usually must be abandoned and prisoners who cannot be guarded are killed Heightened fear can lead to excesses Too often armies have been badly prepared and trained for such warfare and have suffered severely for it In Warfare in Woods and Forests noted military historian Anthony Clayton describes major events in woods and forest warfare from the first century CE to the 21st These events involve Roman soldiers in Germany 2 000 years ago North Americans in 18th and 19th century conflicts invaders of Russia in 1812 and 1941 British French and Americans in France in 1916 and 1918 Americans in the Hurtgen Forest in 1944 and modern day Russian soldiers in Chechnya Betrayal of Poland Simon Rees, 2024-12-30 Compiles firsthand accounts of Polish resistance exile and wartime struggles during WWII

Hitler's Third Reich and Stalin's Soviet Union invaded Poland in September 1939 and the two autocracies proved utterly ruthless in their efforts to subjugate the Polish people. The resultant loss of life was almost unimaginable in scale but Poles from all walks of life refused to submit either at home or abroad. Germany turned on its Soviet ally in June 1941 with Britain, the USA and the USSR eventually becoming partners in the war against Hitler. At various meetings and conferences the Big Three agreed post-war Poland would fall into the Soviet sphere of influence and Poles fighting for a free and independent country found themselves cut adrift. They had a stark choice after VE Day: live in Poland dominated by Stalin's puppets or face a life in exile. Betrayal of Poland is the first major English language compendium of Polish first-hand accounts from the Second World War. Two of the witnesses flew over the Third Reich and faced the deadly threat of night fighters and flak. One fought at Hill 262 in Normandy, joining the effort to close the Falaise Gap while another was parachuted into the Arnhem campaign. Two saw the horrors of Auschwitz, one from behind the wire and the other outside it. Others detailed the hell of being deported into Stalin's Soviet Union and their daily struggle to survive. Departing the USSR and joining what became the Polish II Corps, many went on to fight at Monte Cassino. Finally, several witnesses recalled life under German Occupation and how they joined the Warsaw Uprising, the unequal and ultimately doomed battle against some of Hitler's most murderous units. Backed by comprehensive appendices and several never-seen-before photographs, this work is a must-have for anyone interested in Polish history or the Second World War.

Diary of a Red Devil Albert Blockwell, 2008-10-19

Many books have been written about the Second World War and the majority of them either concentrate on a particular battle campaign or unit. Individual accounts are certainly in a minority and those from the lower ranks even more scarce. Helion and Co Ltd are therefore pleased to announce the publication of Diary of A Red Devil. It relates the war-time experiences of a young man, Albert Blockwell, from the northeast of England, who in February 1940 was called up for service with the Army. Initially conscripted into the Royal Army Ordnance Corps and trained as a vehicle mechanic, he was then posted in March 1940 to a pre-war Territorial unit, The 7th King's Own Scottish Borderers, then a home defense unit based near London. His diary is a most interesting account of a young vehicle mechanic who also had to learn to be an infantry soldier. Albert remained with this unit for all his wartime service, later going to the Shetland Islands when the 7th KOSB were part of OSDEF, Orkney and Shetlands Defence Force. Then in late 1943, much to their surprise, the unit was posted to Lincolnshire to become the third infantry unit in the 1st Airlanding Brigade, then in the process of returning from Italy with the rest of the 1st Airborne Division. Swapping their glengarries for red berets, Albert and his comrades had to adapt to their new way of getting to war by glider. The diary continues with a down-to-earth account of the highs and lows of the next few months. Then in September 1944, Albert flew to Holland on Operation Market Garden and his account, written in a PoW camp, describes the savage nine days fighting at Arnhem from the slit trench level. Taken prisoner on the last day, his account then describes the spartan life in a PoW camp without pulling any punches. Sadly, Albert died in 2001 but his diary survived and his daughter Maggie Clifton together with help from two published Arnhem authors have edited a unique account of the fighting at Arnhem from the front line soldier's perspective

Key sales points

- Unique personal account of the formation of Britain's airborne forces and their epic actions during Operation Market Garden
- The diary is supplemented by extensive annotations from acknowledged Arnhem expert Niall Cherry providing additional information relating to the units and individuals mentioned in Albert's diary
- Features a large number of rare photographs and documents

Arnhem: Myth and Reality Sebastian Ritchie, 2019-04-30

Operation Market Garden often depicted as one of the most decisive military actions of the Allied campaign offered an opportunity to conclude hostilities with Hitler's Germany before 1945 but its disastrous failure left the Allies facing another seven months of difficult and costly fighting

In this revised new paperback edition of Arnhem Myth and Reality Sebastian Ritchie demonstrates that the operation can only be properly understood if it is considered alongside earlier airborne ventures and reassesses the role of the Allied air forces and the widely held view that they bore a particular responsibility for Market Garden's failure

By placing Market Garden in its correct historical setting and by reassessing Allied air plans and their execution this groundbreaking book provides a radically different view of the events of September 1944 challenging much of the current orthodoxy in the process

British Airborne Soldier vs Waffen-SS Soldier

David Greentree, 2019-07-25

Operation Market Garden was an Allied plan to try and end the war before the end of 1944 and relied on landing airborne troops to secure bridges over the Rhine bridges in the Netherlands

Critical to this plan were the glider troops of Britain's 1st Airlanding Brigade

Short on heavy weapons and not trained in street fighting the glider troops were meant to secure and defend the Allied perimeter around Arnhem as the parachute brigades fought their way into the city

Facing the airborne forces were understrength Waffen SS units that were hastily formed into ad hoc battle groups some supported by armour

The troops on both sides would have their tactical flexibility and powers of endurance tested to the limit in the bitter actions that ensued

Employing first hand accounts and drawing upon the latest research David Greentree tells the story of the glider troops dogged defence of the Allied perimeter at Arnhem and the Waffen SS forces efforts to overcome them

Churchill's Spearhead John Greenacre, 2010-06-19

This book covers the inception growth and employment of Britain's airborne forces parachute and glider borne formations between June 1940 and March 1945

It takes a comparative approach and follows tailored lines of development

The contents include Politics and Policy The political environment within which the major decisions were made concerning the concept of development of Britain's airborne forces

Churchills personal contribution the effect of inter service rivalry and the influence of other government departments Equipment and Technology The methods and obstacles of procuring and supplying the bespoke equipment required by airborne forces The supply of combat equipment the provision of support aircraft and the procurement of gliders Personnel and Training The effort incurred to man the new force and the effect of different approaches to recruitment and training The selection and recruitment of airborne personnel the individual training of paratroops and glider pilots and the role of path of development and the operational and tactical employment of the force The reaction and approach of higher
