Intertextuality has signaled change appropriation adaptation and derivation It has focused readers on irresolvable questions of influence and origination progressive or regressive movement across continents periods and media Inhabited by Stories Critical Essays on Tales Retold takes a different approach What would a model of literary study look like that steps out of time's river and embraces not only the presence and proximity of the world to the senses but also of the past and the future to the present here and now When stories inhabit us imagination and memory extend our ability to see and feel Phenomenological experience is lived not just thought Such a perspective suggests that the past and future inhabit the present increase the depth of sensory perception itself and enrich the range of our affective and ethical responses Grounded in the lived experience of reading this perspective offers an alternative to an idea of intertextuality as simply following lines of influence and appropriation It focuses on the expansion of experience created by telling and retelling stories Ironically for literary theorists and critics perhaps the highest form of both praise and critique is a tale retold since such retellings attest to literature's instructive power and its perennial regeneration      The Publishers Weekly, 2008      School Library Journal, 2008      Bitch, 2007      The Gemma Doyle Collection Chloe Brodtkin, 2017-10-15 This is the story of Ann Felicity and Gemma There is a Gargoyle because that is what protects the school it also looks like a winterland creature The main pages contain character profiles of Ann Felicity and Gemma The character profiles are based on The Great and Terrible Beauty written by Libba Bray
