The "Lost" Dialogue of Gregory the Great Carmel Posa, 2024-07-15 Imagine the enduring legacy and ancient hagiographical method used to recover the missing life and voice of St Scholastica of Nursia In The Lost Dialogue of Gregory the Great Carmel Posa SGS applies a disciplined imagination and the ancient hagiographical method to recover the missing life and voice of St Scholastica of Nursia Drawing on a wide range of scholarship including Gregory the Great s four famous dialogues biblical models and the Rule of Benedict Posa follows a technique similarly used by Saint Gregory himself to create an engaging and credible account of Scholastica s life In The Lost Dialogue of Gregory the Great Posa s use of the hagiographical method as a disciplined imagination serves as a tool for the repositioning of women s lives in history By presenting a lost life of Scholastica into the hagiographic record of Christianity she gifts the Church for today with the story of a beloved saint that will not only inspire readers but encourage them to ponder more searchingly the sources of the wisdom contained in Benedict s remarkable Rule Carmel s careful methodology also offers readers an image of Scholastica that has a spiritual standing apart from her famous and holy brother She retrieves the enduring legacy of Scholastica from the margins and places her into the center of monastic history in particular and church history in general Oblates Benedictines and those interested in monastic spirituality will also be challenged to reconsider those women whose voices have been erased devalued or ignored over the centuries and inspired to listen carefully to the whispered words and wisdom of women as we

Nicoll,2016-06-03 Augustine's Problem provides a new approach to St Augustine's life and doctrine hypothesizing that his problem was not sexual addiction but sexual impotence For Augustine the problem with sex was not the seductive nature of women but the unpredictability of desire which can induce an unwanted erection or fail to provide one when even the mind would choose to have sex He extends his personal incapacity to a general impotence of the will we can never without grace choose any good Just as the impotent man cannot work on his impotence we cannot work on our salvation only God can make a difference and predestines a tiny elect The disobedience of the Garden is transferred to the disobedience of the male member guaranteeing that the sin of Eden is transferred in conception as original sin The most controversial elements of Augustine's theology are all linked to the theme of impotence as expressed in his writings from the Confessions to the anti Pelagian works written at the end of his life

Islam, Christianity and Tradition Ian Richard Netton, 2006-12-22 Offers a unique comparative exploration of the role of tradition in Islam and Christianity The idea of tradition has enjoyed a variety of senses and definitions in Islam and Christianity but both have cleaved at certain times to a supposedly golden age of tradition from the past The author suggests there has been a chain of thinkers from classical Islam to the twentieth century who share a common interest in ijtihad or independent thinking Drawing on past and present evidence and using Christian tradition as a focus for contrast and comparison the author highlights the seemingly paradoxical harmony between tradition and ijtihad in Islam The author draws on a variety of primary and secondary sources including contemporary newspaper and journal

Male Confessions Björn Krondorfer, 2009-12-03 Male Confessions examines how men open their intimate lives and thoughts to the public through confessional writing This book examines writings by St Augustine a Jewish ghetto policeman an imprisoned Nazi perpetrator and a gay American theologian that reflect sincere attempts at introspective and retrospective self investigation often triggered by some wounding or rupture and followed by a transformative experience Krondorfer takes seriously the vulnerability exposed in male self disclosure while offering a critique of the religious and gendered rhetoric employed in such discourse The religious imagination he argues allows men to talk about their intimate flawed and sinful selves without having to condemn themselves or to fear self erasure Herein lies the greatest promise of these confessions by baring their souls to judgment these writers may also transcend their self imprisonment

Woman Tina Beattie, 2003-10-01 This theological investigation explores the significance of woman in the Christian tradition from various perspectives It is written as an open ended quest for meaning in the form of a theopoetics rather than as a systematically developed argument Weaving and circling around the Christian idea of woman the book offers an unfolding vision of the problems and possibilities inherent in the story of Christ and the Church with its historical legacy of silencing and exclusion and its unfulfilled promise of freedom and flourishing Tina Beattie concludes that woman is not a form of being but a way of becoming a dynamic and unfolding discovery of self in relation to God humanity and nature which is always in process never completed From a Christian perspective this project of becoming a sexed human being man or woman needs to be understood as part of a larger and more encompassing human vocation to become divine according to the orthodox concept of theosis through the ongoing incarnation of God in Christ the Church and the world
