1. Define taxonomy.

Taxonomy is the way in which organisms are classified, taxon in greek means things that are arranged into a group. So this tells us that organisms are organized into different groups to make it easier for us to study them. Basically it is the practice and science of classification.

2. In the table below, list the seven levels in the hierarchy of taxa and design an acronym to help you remember them. Using two examples from different kingdoms give all seven levels.

	Hierarchical level	ACRONYM	PLANT Example:	ANIMAL Example:
Most diverse	Kingdom	King	Plantae	Animalia
	Phylum	Phillip	Angiospermophyta	Chordata
	Class	Came	Monocotyledineae	Mammalia
	Order	Over	Palmales	Carnivora
	Family	For	Arecaceae	Canidae
	Genus	Good	Phoenix	Canis
Most Specific	species	Sandwiches	lupus	dactylifera

3. Define species.

A species is a group of organisms that can interbreed and produce fertile offspring and it is the smallest taxonomic group.

4. In the space below, explain how the Linnean binomial system of nomenclature works, paying attention to formatting conventions.

The Linnean binomial system of nomenclature is based on the physical traits of a species.

Eschericia coli – because the genus and speceis is typed it has to be in italics

E. coli- When you have used the full name of the organism already in the text then it can be abbreviated.

For example when we look below at Homo sapiens we see that it is underlined because if it is hand written it should be underlined and also the genus must always be capitalized.

Homo sapiens

Neural Theories of Mind William R. Uttal, 2020-07-24 In this fascinating book William R Uttal raises the possibility that however much we learn about the anatomy and physiology of the brain and psychology we may never be able to cross the final bridge explaining how the mind is produced by the brain Three main classes of mind brain theory are considered and rejected field theories because they are based on a superficial analogy single cell theories because they emerge from a massive uncontrolled experimental program and neural net theories because they are constrained by combinatorial complexity To support his argument Uttal explores the empirical and conceptual foundations of these theoretical approaches and identifies flaws in their fundamental logic The author concludes that the problems preventing solution of the mind brain problem are intractable yet well within the confines of natural science Species Conservation in Managed Habitats Werner
