J. Eagles,Stephen F. McCool,Christopher D. Haynes,United Nations Environment Programme,World Tourism Organization,2002 This report tells how to ensure that tourism follows a sustainable path and that it contributes to the sustainable management of protected areas Guidelines are presented to help readers understand protected area tourism and its management and practical suggestions are based on theory and practice from around the world Coverage includes biodiversity and conservation planning for protected area tourism culturally sensitive design and operation visitor management and human resources There is no subject index Eagles teaches at the University of Waterloo Canada Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Flow, Mass Transport and Ecological Process in Land-Freshwater-Marine Ecosystems on Earth Weijie Wang,Senlin Zhu,Guotao Cui,2023-12-05 World in Transition: Ways Towards Global Environmental Solutions German Advisory Council on Global change (WBGU),2012-12-06 At the first Conference of the Parties of the Climate Convention in Berlin in Spring 1995 it became evident once again To counteract anthropogenic climate changes individuals as well as societies have to change their way of thinking and behavior This accounts for other areas of global environmental change as well Global trends like soil degradation loss of biological diversity water scarcity and population growth show little or no sign of improvement In fact in most areas a rapid deterioration has taken place In its latest Report the German Advisory Council on Global Change describes Ways Towards Global Environmental Solutions

Solutions to high-quality development: theories and practices in ecological aspects Fan Zhang,2022-12-08 Biology of the Southern Ocean George A. Knox,2006-12-13 First published in 1993 The Biology of the Southern Ocean has been referred to as international research at its best and an invaluable reference Drawing on the considerable volume of information published in the last ten years this second edition retains the format that made the first edition a popular bestseller while updating the information Adaptive management of fisheries in response to climate change Bahri, T., Vasconcellos, M., Welch, D.J., Johnson, J., Perry, R.I., Ma, X. & Sharma, R.,2021-02-01 This report aims to accelerate climate change adaptation implementation in fisheries management throughout the world It showcases how flexibility can be introduced in the fisheries management cycle in order to foster adaptation strengthen the resilience of fisheries reduce their vulnerability to climate change and enable managers to respond in a timely manner to the projected changes in the dynamics of marine resources and ecosystems The publication includes a set of good practices for climate adaptive fisheries management that have proven their effectiveness and can be adapted to different contexts providing a range of options for stakeholders including the fishing industry fishery managers policymakers and others involved in decision making These good practices were linked to one or more of the three common climate related impacts on fisheries resources distributional change productivity change and species composition change Therefore these three impacts can serve as practical entry points to guide decision makers in identifying good practice adaptation measures suitable for their local contexts These good practices are based upon transferable experiences and lessons learned from the thirteen case studies across the globe and hopefully will contribute to greater uptake and implementation of climate adaptive fisheries management measures on the ground

Marine Ecosystem Restoration (MER) - Challenges and New Horizons Brian Silliman, Avigdor Abelson, Christine Angelini, Gesche Krause, Megan Irene Saunders, Tjisse Van Der Heide, 2023-10-23 Worldwide marine ecosystems have been lost and degraded due to anthropogenic disturbances For example oyster reefs have declined by at least 85% coral reefs by 19% seagrasses by 29% North American salt marshes by 42% and mangroves by 35% from the early 19th century Deepwater reefs and deep sea vents are not immune and have also been reduced in extent in many areas Factors driving these losses include habitat destruction pollution invasive species overfishing trawling mining and more recently climate change effects such as ocean warming species range changes and acidification These habitat declines are occurring at a time when marine waters are being used at or near their maximum productive capacity to meet the contemporary needs of an ever increasing human population Because coastal and marine ecosystems generate some of the richest biodiversity hotspots on Earth and provide critical ecosystem services including storm protection fisheries production and carbon storage over 1 billion US dollars have been spent globally in an attempt to halt and reverse observed declines Early conservation efforts aimed at protecting these valuable and threatened habitats focused on reducing human impacts and physical stressors However with habitat degradation continuing and sometimes increasing in rate it is now clear conservation alone will not be sufficient to protect and reestablish coastal ecosystems Habitat restoration although in existence for many decades has recently been elevated as a new primary strategy to stem and even reverse coastal habitat loss The call for increasing investment in restoration efforts has emerged with significant advances in propagule rearing and dispersion of habitat forming organisms e g oysters seagrasses corals In addition restoration resources are increasingly allocated by governments and or large corporations with the aim to for example fix past landscape engineering efforts that had unintended environmental consequences Such investments are being made to i provide jobs for those unemployed during economic downturns ii restore ecosystems destroyed by natural disasters and stressors iii increase coastal defense in response to increased frequency of intense storms and or iv compensate for pollution and development driven habitat degradation Conservation practitioners have traditionally been skeptical to invest heavily in restoration at large scales

because of the high cost per area 10 000 5 000 000 US ha for coastal vs 500 5 000 US ha for terrestrial systems to replant coastal ecosystems and or the high chance that the restored ecosystems will not live long e g outplanted corals For restoration to be effective and employed as a primary method of coastal conservation at relevant scales we must improve its efficiency lower costs and rapidly share and incorporate advances One crucial step will be to identify when and where restoration attempts have been carried out according to state of art ecological theory and gauge their success Another is generating synthesis studies that focus both within and across ecosystems to identify efficiencies adaptations and innovations Work that shows theoretical and methodological innovations in specific ecosystems as well as across systems will be critical to pushing all fields of MER forward Although there is rapidly increasing interest and investment the field of marine ecosystem restoration is just beginning to undergo synthesis Therefore the aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research contributions to help address this synthesis need provide a spotlight for recent innovations enhance our understanding of successful methods in marine ecosystem restoration and promote integration of ecological sociological and engineering theory into restoration practices

United States Coast Pilot ,1996 United States Code United States,2008 Large Marine Ecosystems of the Indian Ocean Kenneth Sherman,Ezekiel N. Okemwa,Micheni J. Ntiba,2009-06-01 In this volume marine experts from countries of East Africa and southern Asia describe the conditions of marine resources of the large marine ecosystems of the Indian Ocean Countries of the region represent over a quarter of the world s population most of whom are existing at or below the poverty level The potentials for economic growth through the development of coastal tourism mariculture fisheries mineral extraction and oil and gas production are examined by the authors in relation to the need for ensuring the long term sustainability of marine resources Case studies of resource assessments presented by several authors illustrate the magnitude of risk from continuing degradation of resources under the prevailing unmanaged conditions extending over much of coastal areas of East Africa and southern Asia The authors explore the application of multidisciplinary ecosystem based assessment and management strategies to the future economic development of the large marine ecosystems of the region With the initiation of science based management practices the ecosystems of the area can provide an important source of economic growth improved food security and nutritional benefits to the populations of stakeholders in coastal areas bordering the Indian Ocean

Ecological Geography of the Sea Alan R. Longhurst, 2010-08-03 This book presents an in depth discussion of the biological and ecological geography of the oceans It synthesizes locally restricted studies of the ocean to generate a global geography of the vast marine world Based on patterns of algal ecology the book divides the ocean into four primary compartments which are then subdivided into secondary compartments Includes color insert of the latest in satellite imagery showing the world's oceans their similarities and differences Revised and updated to reflect the latest in oceanographic research Ideal for anyone interested in understanding ocean ecology accessible and informative

The Search for Biological Active Agent(s) From Actinobacteria, 2nd Edition Learn-Han Lee, Kok-Gan Chan, Jem Stach, Elizabeth M. H. Wellington, Bey-Hing Goh, 2020-03-27 There is a large market demand for new drugs The existing chronic or common ailments without cures development of new diseases with unknown causes and the widespread existence of antibiotic resistant pathogens have driven this field of research further by looking at all potential sources of natural products To date microbes have made a significant contribution to the health and well being of people globally The discoveries of useful metabolites produced by microbes have resulted in a significant proportion of pharmaceutical products in today's market Therefore the investigation and identification of bioactive compounds producing microbes is always of great interest to researchers Actinobacteria are one of the most important and efficient groups of natural metabolite producers Among the numerous genera Streptomyces have been recognized as prolific producers of useful natural compounds as they provide more than half of the naturally occurring antibiotics isolated to date and continue to emerge as the primary source of new bioactive compounds Certainly these potentials have attracted ample research interest and a wide range of biological activities have been subsequently screened by researchers with the utilization of different In vitro and In vivo model of experiments Literature evidence has shown that a significant number of interesting compounds produced by Actinobacteria were exhibiting either strong anticancer or neuroprotective activity The further in depth studies have then established the modulation of apoptotic pathway was involved in those observed bioactivities These findings indirectly prove the biopharmaceutical potential possessed by Actinobacteria and at the same time substantiate the importance of diverse pharmaceutical evaluations on Actinobacteria In fact many novel compounds discovered from Actinobacteria with strong potential in clinical applications have been developed into new drugs by pharmaceutical companies Together with the advancement in science and technology it is predicted that there would be an expedition in discoveries of new bioactive compounds producing Actinobacteria from various sources including soil and marine sources In light of these current needs and great interest in the scope of this research this book seeks to contribute on the investigation of different biological active compound s producing actinobacteria which are exhibiting antimicrobial antioxidant neuroprotective anticancer activities and similar
