injustice victimhood and harm It is a commonly held view that the city of Belfast is emerging out of conflict and into a new era of tolerance and transformation This book challenges this viewpoint The authors pinpoint how international peace accords such as the Belfast Agreement are gradually eroded as conflict shifts into a stale and repetitive pattern of ethnically divided competition over resources This book is a vivid portrait of how segregation lived experience and fear are linked in a manner that undermines democratic accountability It argues that the control of place remains the most important weapon in the politicisation of communities and the reproduction of political violence Segregation provides the laboratory within which sectarianism continues to grow

New Orleans and the Design Moment Jacob Wagner, Michael Frisch, 2014-06-11

Following the disaster of Hurricane Katrina in New Orleans people began to discuss and visualize the ways in which the urban structure of the city could be reorganized Rather than defining the disaster recovery process as simply a matter of rebuilding the existing city these voices called for a more radical rethinking of the city's physical social and environmental systems This idea of disaster as an opportunity for urban restructuring is a hallmark of a design moment Design moments are different from the incremental process of urban growth and development Instead of gradual growth and change design moments present the opportunity for a significant restructuring of urban form that can shape the city for decades to come As such a design moment presents a critical juncture in the historical growth and development of a city In this book we explore the question what does urban design have to do with a disaster like Hurricane Katrina Focused on New Orleans the authors explore different dimensions of the post disaster design moment including the politics of physical redevelopment the city's history and identity justice and the image of the city demolition and housing development and the environmental aspects of the recovery process This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Urban Design

Ethnicity, Inc. John L. Comaroff, Jean Comaroff, 2009-09-15 In Ethnicity Inc anthropologists John L and Jean Comaroff analyze a new moment in the history of human identity its rampant commodification Through a wide ranging exploration of the changing relationship between culture and the market they address a pressing question Wherein lies the future of ethnicity Their account begins in South Africa with the incorporation of an ethno business in venture capital by a group of traditional African chiefs But their horizons are global Native American casinos Scotland s efforts to brand itself a Zulu ethno theme park named Shakaland a world religion declared to be intellectual property a chieftom made into a global business by means of its platinum holdings San Bushmen with patent rights potentially worth millions of dollars nations acting as commercial enterprises and the rapid growth of marketing firms that target specific ethnic populations are just some of the diverse examples that fall under the Comaroffs incisive scrutiny These phenomena range from the disturbing through the intriguing to the absurd Through them the Comaroffs trace the contradictory effects of neoliberalism as it transforms identities and social being across the globe Ethnicity Inc is a penetrating account of the ways in which ethnic populations are remaking themselves in the image of the corporation while corporations coopt ethnic practices to open up new markets and regimes of consumption Intellectually rigorous but leavened with wit this is a powerful highly original portrayal of a new world being born in a tectonic collision of culture capitalism and identity
