Biodiversity Hotspots Vittore Rescigno,2010 Current loss of biodiversity places a premium on the task of recognising and formulating proposals on potential areas for biological conservation based on scientific criteria among these tasks identification of hotspots has a relevant role on conservation of biodiversity In this book the authors discuss the application of different biogeographic methods to identify plant biodiversity hotspots The areas recognised as such have a relevant role in plant biodiversity and are important in conservation due to their climatic conditions the historical factors that have been involved in their evolution and the restricted distribution of some plant taxa that inhabit them Furthermore the consequences of deforestation on biodiversity are substantial and widely recognised This book predicts future land use change generates ecological niches of large mammals and assesses wildlife concentrations and their hotspots in different areas of the world The evolution of the forest fragmentation in the Brazilian Atlantic forest the present situation of its remnants and the main strategies conflicts and potentials for conservation are evaluated as well    From Social Butterfly to Engaged Citizen Marcus Foth,Laura Forlano,Christine Satchell,Martin Gibbs,2011-11-18 Studies from around the world show how the social media tools of Web 2.0 are shaping engagement with cities communities and spaces Web 2.0 tools including blogs wikis and photo sharing and social networking sites have made possible a more participatory Internet experience Much of this technology is available for mobile phones where it can be integrated with such device specific features as sensors and GPS From Social Butterfly to Engaged Citizen examines how this increasingly open collaborative and personalizable technology is shaping not just our social interactions but new kinds of civic engagement with cities communities and spaces It offers analyses and studies from around the world that explore how the power of social technologies can be harnessed for social engagement in urban areas Chapters by leading researchers in the emerging field of urban informatics outline the theoretical context of their inquiries describing a new view of the city as a hybrid that merges digital and physical worlds examine technology aided engagement involving issues of food the environment and sustainability explore the creative use of location based mobile technology in cities from Melbourne Australia to Dhaka Bangladesh study technological innovations for improving civic engagement and discuss design research approaches for understanding the development of sentient real time cities including interaction portals and robots    Building an Innovation Hotspot Alicia Cameron,2022-06 How can you increase innovation at local levels and build new technology hotspots Building an Innovation Hotspot outlines the approaches governments communities and industry have used to stimulate innovation and examines the evidence behind them It also identifies real world examples where these approaches have worked and where they have failed As future industries will be built on new technologies particularly digital technologies the final chapters of this book consider how artificial intelligence blockchain augmented and virtual reality and 3D printing might change not just where innovation occurs but innovation itself Stimulating innovation will be key to addressing our future needs in the shadow of the COVID 19 pandemic and in tackling the all pervasive impacts of climate change This is an essential book for anyone looking to build their local economy and compete in a more globalised world connected by the next wave of digital technology Biodiversity Hotspot of the Himalaya T. Biodiversity

Hotspots Frank E. Zachos,Jan Christian Habel,2011-09-15 Biodiversity and its conservation are among the main global topics in science and politics and perhaps the major challenge for the present and coming generations This book written by international experts from different disciplines comprises general chapters on diversity and its measurement human impacts on biodiversity hotspots on a global scale human diversity itself and various geographic regions exhibiting high levels of diversity The areas covered range from genetics and taxonomy to evolutionary biology biogeography and the social sciences In addition to the classic hotspots in the tropics the book also highlights various other ecosystems harbouring unique species communities including coral reefs and the Southern Ocean The approach taken considers but is not limited to the original hotspot definition sensu stricto and presents a chapter introducing the 35th hotspot the forests of East Australia While due to a bias in data availability the majority of contributions on particular taxa deal with vertebrates and plants some also deal with the less studied invertebrates This book will be essential reading for anyone involved with biodiversity particularly researchers and practitioners in the fields of conservation biology ecology and evolution
