Earth's environments are constantly changing and have been since Earth formed. However, Earth has changed drastically since the dawn of the earliest human relatives. In the last twenty years or so, scientists have found that human activity has put three quarters of Earth's land surface under pressure. This set explores how humans have impacted a number of environments and how these places might look if humans didn't exist there. Suggested conservation efforts show readers that hope isn't lost for these parts of Earth and that they can help make these environments healthy once again. Features include full color photographs and primary sources aid student comprehension. Supports the Next Generation Science Standards by introducing students to the methods by which humans understand the natural world and how they interact with their environments. Incorporates STEM related topics to enhance readers' STEM knowledge.

Human Impacts on the Environment: Past, Present and Future Aaron Scott, 2019-06-17

The human impact on the environment is understood from the scientific study of anthropocene. It is a proposed epoch in Earth's history characterized by significant human influence on Earth's geology, ecosystems, and climate. The loss of biodiversity is due to an accelerated rate of species extinction. This is witnessed through the massive decline of marine phytoplankton in the world's oceans and decrease in algal biomass. Other aspects of human impacts include the large scale migration of species, rise in global and ocean temperatures, etc. This is caused by human overpopulation, overconsumption, intensive fishing, and farming, etc. This book is a compilation of chapters that discuss the most vital concepts to understand the effects of human activities on the environment. It contains some path breaking studies in this field. It will serve as a valuable source of reference for all experts and students.
