by Kelly Hashway

Before planes, people traveled by boat. And getting goods from one place to another took a long time, especially when ships had to sail around continents. In the early 1600s, European trading companies were looking for faster routes to sail to India and Asia.

Hudson soon realized that a northeast passage across the Arctic would be nearly impossible. He decided to change directions and search for a water route to Asia through the New World instead. Hudson and the Half Moon's crew headed southwest across the Atlantic Ocean to America.

After several months, Hudson landed on small islands near Newfoundland, Canada. He sailed the Half Moon along the coast in search of a northwest passage across the continent of North America. He arrived in the New York Harbor and sailed up a body of water that is now named the Hudson River. He thought the river might lead to the Pacific Ocean. But he was wrong, and he was forced to turn back to Europe. He had explored new lands, but did not find a route to Asia.

Hudson made one final attempt in 1610, on a new ship named Discovery. He sailed Discovery across the northern Atlantic, along the coast of Greenland, and into Canada. He discovered a large
