The Midnight Charter By David Whitley:

The Midnight Charter David Whitley,2009-08-06 In the city of Agora anything can be bought and sold Even children are possessions until their twelfth birthday Mark has been sold by his father and Lily an orphan from birth has bartered for her life Thrown together by chance in the ancient tower of Count Stelli they face an existence of poverty and servitude unless they can find a way to break free But unbeknown to Mark and Lily they are being watched by the ruler of the city Can they survive the traps and treachery that await them and discover the dark secret that binds them together Their lives depend on this question what is the Midnight Charter

The Midnight Charter David Whitley,2009-08-06 In the tower of Count Stelli in the ancient city state of Agora two children meet apparently by chance At first their only goal is survival In Agora everything can be bought and sold debt is death and Mark and Lily must barter their labor for their lives But they are destined to fulfill the prophecy of the secret Midnight Charter devised by Agora s founders What is the Charter How and why are members of the city s powerful elite involved and who among them can Lily and Mark trust Page 2 of cover

The Children of the Lost David Whitley,2010-08-05 MARK AND LILY HAVE BEEN BANISHED from Agora the ancient city state where everything is for sale memories emotions even children Lost and alone they discover Giseth a seemingly perfect land where everyone is equal possessions are unknown and Lily believes they will find the secret of their entwined destiny But paradise comes at a price Why are their new friends so scared What hides deep in the forest And who is the mysterious woman who appears in their dreams urging them to find the Children of the Lost

The Publishers Weekly ,2009 The Canticle of Whispers David Whitley,2013-02-19 In The Canticle of Whispers the final volume of the Agora trilogy Mark and Lily lead the revolution to unseat the powerful elite while confronting the dark and twisted nature of their destinies Over the course of their travels Mark and Lily have seen the dark side of capitalist society and the terrifying side of utopian community Now they journey deep underground to a world populated by people terrified of physical touch but capable of creating mesmerizing song Here they discover the seat of Agora s power and try to right the wrongs of their forefathers but can they succeed without sacrificing themselves In this gripping conclusion to a trilogy that is at once timely and prophetic David Whitley pushes his characters and his world to the brink in order to find redemption from the past

Listening to Learn Sharon Grover,Lizette D. Hannegan,2012 Audiobooks not only present excellent opportunities to engage the attention of young people but also advance literacy Learn how the format can support national learning standards and literacy skills in the K 12 curricula

Great Escapes Emma L. E. Rees,2014-07-08 There are moments reflects Rhoda one of Virginia Woolf s characters in The Waves when the walls of the mind grow thin when nothing is unabsorbed and I could fancy that we might blow so vast a bubble that the sun might set and rise in it and we might take the blue of midday and the black of midnight and be cast off and escape from here and now Poetry is like Rhoda s bubble From nothing the poet fashions an entire world of meaning and sensation Poets and readers enter that imaginary frangible world to escape the here and now and since we must always return to the here and now a good poem must equip us better to deal with or understand it Whether it s the music in which ice cream factory workers find sanctuary as Philip Williams suggests in his prizewinning poem The Elvis Shed or a painter s quest for truth as Andrew Rudd s poem Hiroshige at Work shows the poems in this collection provide many alternate worlds into which we may escape The Cheshire Prize for Literature was inaugurated in 2003 as the High Sheriff s Cheshire Prize for Literature It is funded by the Bank of America and is administered by the University of Chester The 2013 competition was for poetry and this collection contains poems by 26 of the shortlisted poets including those of the eventual winner and runners up Details of the Prize are available at <http://www.chester.ac.uk/literatureprize> Show More Show Less
