The Pickup By Nadine Gordimer:

The Pickup Zoe X. Rider, 2014-06-12 After 20 years of knockdown drag out bouts MMA champ Hoyt Daniels put himself out to pasture retiring to a cabin in the Tennessee Mountains where no one would witness the rest of his decline from his fighting peak His quiet life of solitude is interrupted by a hot tempered young man in a beat up Ford pickup who s got issues with Hoyt s driving The former pro has no worries about who d win in a fistfight but the attraction he feels for Ford is a sucker punch he s got no defense against

At Home in the World Maria DiBattista,Deborah Epstein Nord,2019-06-18 In a bold and sweeping reevaluation of the past two centuries of women s writing At Home in the World argues that this body of work has been defined less by domestic concerns than by an active engagement with the most pressing issues of public life from class and religious divisions slavery warfare and labor unrest to democracy tyranny globalism and the clash of cultures In this new literary history Maria DiBattista and Deborah Epstein Nord contend that even the most seemingly traditional works by British American and other English language women writers redefine the domestic sphere in ways that incorporate the concerns of public life allowing characters and authors alike to forge new emancipatory narratives The book explores works by a wide range of writers including canonical figures such as Jane Austen Charlotte Brontë George Eliot Harriet Jacobs Edith Wharton Virginia Woolf Willa Cather Gertrude Stein and Toni Morrison neglected or marginalized writers like Mary Antin Tess Slesinger and Martha Gellhorn and recent and contemporary figures including Nadine Gordimer Anita Desai Edwidge Danticat and Jhumpa Lahiri DiBattista and Nord show how these writers dramatize tensions between home and the wider world through recurrent themes of sailing forth escape exploration dissent and emigration Throughout the book uncovers the undervalued public concerns of women writers who ventured into ever wider geographical cultural and political territories forging new definitions of what it means to create a home in the world The result is an enlightening reinterpretation of women s writing from the early nineteenth century to the present day Toxic Belonging? Identity and Ecology in Southern Africa Dan Wylie,2009-03-26 Southern Africa s literatures brim with references to the natural world its landscapes and its animals Both fictional and non fictional works express ongoing debates often highly politicised concerning its various groups senses of identity and belonging in relation to the land and its denizens This often involves a pervasive tension between Western settler societies conceptions of modernity and indigenous world views each complicating the often simplistic binarisms drawn between them In this selection of papers from the 2006 Literature and Ecology Colloquium held in Grahamstown South Africa the complexities of forging imaginative and pragmatic senses of belonging in Southern Africa are explored from a variety of disciplinary perspectives philosophical historical botanical and anthropological as well as literary Their subject matter ranges widely from Bushmen testimonies to Berlin missionaries from prehistoric cave dwellers to Schopenhauer from white Batswana to lion tamers but find themselves echoing one another in intriguing and illuminating ways These are highly localised meditations on age old questions What does it mean to be human within a natural environment Why do we appear to be so damaging to the ecology that sustains us Is our presence inevitably toxic to our planetary fellow travellers How do we forge an ecologically sound sense of belonging in this post colonial post apartheid post modern era If this collection has a single most prominent question binding it together it is this What are the limits and potentialities of human compassion towards the natural world
